Long Senate Fight Ending

Carswell Vote a Toss-Up

JUDGE CARSWELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long Senate fight over Judge G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination drew to its tense ending today with the outcome in serious doubt, a virtual replay of President Nixon's first attempt to fill the high court vacancy.

Although both sides predicted victory, some senators said before the crucial roll call the lineup was so evenly balanced a tie-breaking vote by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the Senate's presiding officer, was a distinct possibility.

Nixon nominated the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge Jan. 19, following the Senate's 55-45 rejection last November of his first choice for the seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

As in the Haynsworth situation, a handful of uncommitted senators held the key to confirmation and the result was a large question mark before the vote opened.

Maneuvering by both sides continued through the night Tuesday and into today's early hours. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., released a statement shortly before 2 a.m., taking his name off the uncommitted list and placing it in line against the nomination.

Carswell meets none of the standards necessary for the nation's highest tribunal, Percy said in becoming the ninth Republican senator to announce against the selection.

An Associated Press survey made prior to the vote and disregarding the four expected absentees showed 44 for confirmation, 41 against and 11 uncommitted.

Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., both were ill and their aides said Tuesday night neither would be on hand for the vote.

Away attending a meeting in Southeast Asia were Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Nixon, who pledged in his election campaign to place strict constitutional constructionists on the Supreme Court, affirmed his total support of Carswell last week as controversy continued swirling around the nominee's racial views and judicial record.

Two days ago, in a first test of Senate strength, a motion to return the nomination to the Judiciary Committee was defeated 52 to 44. That initial Carswell victory was not regarded as conclusive by either side.

Three senators who voted against recommittal already had announced they would vote against confirmation in the showdown and switches the other way also had been expected.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the vote on recommittal "went about as we expected and we continue to be confident Judge Carswell will be confirmed."

Although GOP senators stood behind Carswell's nomination more than they did Haynsworth's, when 17 Republicans deserted Nixon, there was other last-minute GOP slippage besides Percy.

Oregon's Mark Hatfield announced not unexpectedly Tuesday he would vote no. He previously had urged Nixon to withdraw the nomination.

Carswell, a judge on the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals since last June and a federal district judge in Tallahassee for 11 years before that, had come under attack for his racial views and what opponents call his mediocre record on the bench.

Nixon branded the charges baseless, and nomination supporters said opponents were trying to obscure their real objection—a Southern conservative on the high court.

Carswell supporters have said they do not believe a narrow victory would impair his effectiveness.

Rejection of Carswell's nomination would make Nixon the first President in this century—and the fourth in history—to lose more than one battle over a Supreme Court nominee.

Carswell, like Haynsworth before him, was nominated to fill the vacancy that has existed since Abe Fortas resigned under fire last May.

Council Approves UDC Housing Plan

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Common Council had to do it twice, but it finally approved a "Memorandum of Understanding" with the State Urban Development Corporation for the construction of up to 150 apartments in Broadway East.

The Memorandum of Understanding with the state agency was passed once by the Council for the apartments with the provision that the proposed Rondout Neighborhood Center be included in the overall project.

That resolution stood for about an hour until Mayor Francis R. Koenig called the aldermen into caucus. After the caucus the original resolution was amended to delete the Rondout Neighborhood Center.

According to several aldermen, officials of UDC, who were in attendance last night, would not go along with the housing - neighborhood center package plan proposed by the city. State officials added, however, that the neighborhood center could be considered as a separate UDC project "within a reasonable period of time."

UDC had also asked the Council to approve a similar housing project off Hurley Avenue near Stony Run Apartments. That proposal remained in committee last night for further study.

In other action, the aldermen approved a five-member Narcotics Guidance Council under legislation passed in July of last year. The Council approved the narcotics panel last year and named its members last night. Those include Dr. Elmer S. McKay of Woodstock, the chairman, for a term of three years; Bernard Farrell of Rolling Meadows, a Kingston High School guidance counselor, for two years; J. Michael Bruhn of 49 West Chestnut Street, an attorney, for two years; the Rev. Daniel J. Croston of St. Peter's Church, a clergyman, for two years and Mrs. William J. Cranston of 309 Albany Avenue for one year.

The aldermen also approved the transfer of $8,000 from one board of public works account to another to pay for the renovation of new offices for the department's proposed administrative office in the municipal building on East O'Reilly Street. The administrative offices are now on the second floor of city hall. Those offices will be used by the building department.

There was a lengthy discussion over the transfer with some aldermen contesting the legality of transferring funds to a new account in the budget. Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) who opposed the transfer, made a motion to table the resolution which was defeated 6-5.

The money will come from a $14,000 appropriation for a new heating plant at the Hasbrouck Avenue offices of the BPW. It was found that there was insufficient room at those offices to install the heating plant.

A request by Mayor Koenig asking for $1,500 to equalize salaries between the city's housing code inspectors and the housing inspectors who will be hired for the federal code enforcement program was approved. Koenig noted in a communication to the Council that the city inspectors are paid $5,000 a year and that the federal inspectors will be paid $6,000. He said that since they had similar duties they should be paid the same. The city currently has one housing code inspector and will hire another one in the immediate future.

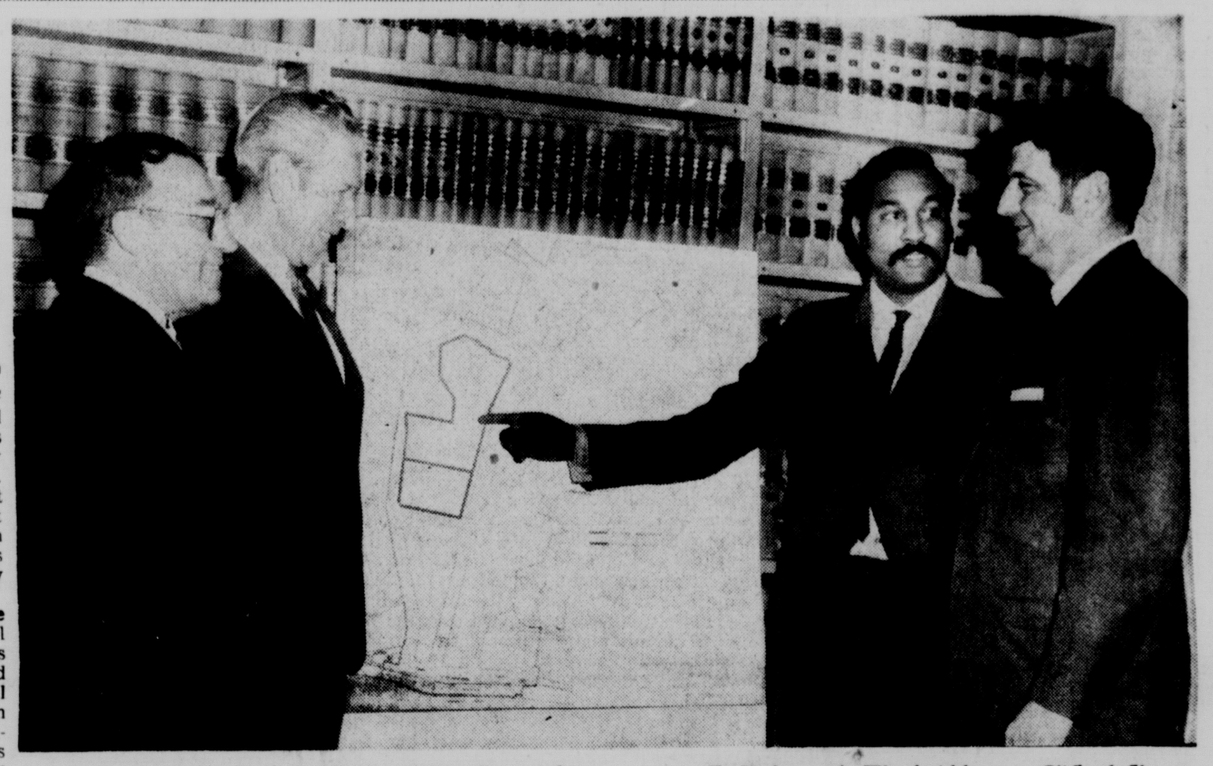

The aldermen also approved a 25-year pension plan for city employes. John Machione (R-Second Ward) in voting for the plan said he would like to see a 20-year plan implemented as soon as possible.

The topic of increased rates for Kingston Cablevision did not come up for a vote but was a subject of heated discussion when the letter from the company asking for the increase was read.

Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) said it was "amusing" that the company was asking for an increase when "they're so evasive about complaints." He said that the company had started with 2,000 subscribers about 10 years ago and probably had more than 10,000 today.

Sinsabaugh said that Cablevision's franchise "wasn't worth the paper it's written on." He said the people in his ward were" strictly against any increases."

Mancuso also notified the Council that after several months investigation he has found the owner of the burned out Empire Diner on Central Broadway. The owner is John Weider of Wurts Street, according to Mancuso, and is willing to demolish the building by April 15. Titus Sims (R-13th Ward) said he was also investigating abandoned buildings in his ward.

HOUSING SITE—Herbert Morris, project director for the Urban Development Corp., points to site of proposed 150 moderate apartment buildings in the Broadway East area. With him are (l-r) City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, 10th Ward Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh, chairman of the UR Committee and Sixth Ward Alderman Donald Quick, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Conservatives Say 'No' to Fish Candidacy

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., will not get the Ulster County Conservative Party endorsement for reelection even though the party has given its blessings to the balance of the GOP slate.

The Freeman learned today that the local Conservative Party will field its own candidate instead and reliable sources point toward the party chairman, Harry S. Hoffman of Saugerties as the candidate.

The Conservatives bypassed Fish they claim, because of what they term his liberal voting record but at the same time endorsed the balance of the Republican slate of Sen. Jay P. Rolison, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, County Treasurer Fred DuBois, Coroner Arthur C. Chipp and for the post of district attorney, Francis J. Vogt.

Hoffman said that sentiment against Fish developed after a tally of his voting scores by the Americans for Constitutional Action, the Americans for Democratic Action and the Committee on Political Education. He said Fish received a 29 from ACA when Conservatives feel a high score is desirable, he received a score of 33 from ADA where a low score is desirable, and an 80 from COPE where Conservatives feel a low score is desirable.

The Ulster Conservative Party will meet to select its congressional candidate on April 10 in the Port Ewen Town Hall.

Endorsement of Bell, Rolison, Chipp and DuBois came at a March meeting and endorsement of Vogt followed last Monday night when the party met specifically to interview both Vogt and his Democratic opponent, Alex J. Nirenberg of Ellenville.

Although Vogt clearly won the endorsement, "it was no landslide" according to those attending. The vote climaxed about two hours of floor debate on the post of district attorney and was the first time the two campaignees have confronted each other, marking the "opening gun of what looks like a hot campaign," according to one spectator.

HARRY S. HOFFMAN

Regarding Hoffman's possible candidacy for Congress, the IBM employe and former candidate for county legislator does not discount the probability but cautions that the Conservatives are also "looking the Democrats over" should they wish to jump in another direction.

Although the Democratic Party has not as yet chosen a candidate for Congress, it is reportedly considering Morris Abram, former president of Brandeis University; John J. Greaney of East Durham, a member of State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's legal staff and Mrs. Martha Dayton, chairman of the Greene County Board of Supervisors.

Hoffman said he does not feel the Conservatives could go along with Abram but would consider the others.

Hoffman and Frank Meyers of Woodstock, both Conservative Party state committeemen were in New York City for the state convention today in which their party nominated Dr. Paul Adams for governor and James Buckley for U. S. Senate.

Fish, who won his first term in Congress by defeating Democrat John S. Dyson, had to fight for the nomination when Conservative-thinking Republican, Gordon Liddy of Dutchess County, opposed him in a primary. When Fish emerged victorious, Liddy still posed a threat for some time when Conservatives encouraged him to run on their party line. Liddy bowed out, however, and Fish failed to get Conservative endorsement for his 1968 campaign.

Fish also engaged in a primary in 1966 with Samuel Aldrich whom he defeated but lost the election to the incumbent Democrat Joseph Y. Resnick.

Fish was not conservatively endorsed that year either. The Conservative Party ran its own candidate, Jean Hervey.

DRAMA DOWN UNDER—A newspaper team struggles to get a girl back over a safety fence after she was discovered about to jump into the sea from a 180 foot cliff at Sydney, Australia. The team from the Sydney Sun happened upon the girl as a local resident was pleading with her not to jump. As she edged herself closer to the drop-off, the Sun men, a reporter and photographer, grabbed her and pulled her, still struggling back to safety. Police took her to a psychiatric hospital. Area Druggist Killed In Route 28 Accident

By WALTER S. CLARK

TOWN OF KINGSTON

A 40-year-old pharmacist was fatally injured at 10:15 p.m. Tuesday when his car went out of control on Route 28 about three miles west of Route 209 in this township, went down an embankment and overturned pinning him beneath the vehicle.

State Police identified the victim as Robert J. Langer of 88 Stahlman Place, Town of Ulster, who operated a drug store on Route 375 in West Hurley.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser, who investigated the fatality at the scene with Kingston State Police, said Langer died of a crushed chest and other injuries.

A report of Sergeant Charles Bundschuh and Trooper Norman Kilfoyle noted that Langer was proceeding alone in his car in an easterly direction along Route 28 when the vehicle veered off the right shoulder of the highway, skidded across the pavement, crashed through guard rails and went down a steep embankment.

Authorities said Langer was ejected through a window of the car and the vehicle overturned on its top pinning the pharmacist under it. Passing motorists assisted in righting the vehicle and an ambulance was summoned from Fatum's Service in Kingston.

An official said Langer was not using the safety seat belts that were in the car.

Langer formerly operated a drug store on Albany Avenue, it was noted by authorities Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers were at the scene of the mishap to investigate.

Last night's highway fatality was Ulster County's eighth traffic death of 1970 and the second this month. The eighth motor vehicle death in 1969 occurred on Route 299 in New Paltz, when an 18-year-old Hicksville, L.I., youth was killed when hit by a car as he walked along the highway.

Meanwhile, Ellenville State Police investigated a two-car collision that occurred at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday on Main Street in the Town of Wawarsing community of Napanoch. One driver was cited for two vehicle and traffic law violations.

Trooper R. F. O'Donnell reported that Reuben Matthews, 16, of Wawarsing, and 55-year-old Paul Zamolino, also of Wawarsing, was traveling west in their cars along Main Street, when the brakes on the youth's car reportedly failed as he was passing on the right of the other vehicle.

Matthews' car, troopers reported, was in collision with the Zamolini vehicle. There were no injuries.

Trooper O'Donnell summoned Matthews on charges of improper passing and driving a motor vehicle with inadequate brakes.

Rhinebeck Supervisor Issues Initial Report

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — One of William Allen's campaign promises when running for Towin Supervisor here last year was to issue a periodic report to the people of Rhinebeck. Today he complied with his first, three months after taking office.

Two particular policies mentioned in his report concerned themselves with the highway department personnel and public use of town facilities.

"Councilman Louis Asher, Superintendent of Highways George Wyant, and I have made an examination of our highways," he said. "We are working on planning further road improvement work," said Allen, noting that a lack of planning for highways had long been needed.

In regard to the Personnel Committee, Allen said, that it would issue its report soon concerning personal overtime, sick time, and other facets of interest to town employes.

"A Town Hall use policy has been developed and will be adopted," he said. "There was a need for stricter administration of the hall because of widespread misuse of this facility." He commented that the hall would be open to all people and groups of Rhinebeck, but that the rules "must be followed and will be enforced."

Permission for use of the hall will be granted upon application to the board's Building Committee, headed by Judge DeWitt Gurnell. The Town Clerk will have application forms available in the near future, and she will keep a record of all reservations. When the new use policy is officially adopted it will be published in the area.

Allen also discussed his reorganizations of the board, assigning each man to committees in place of the relatively unorganized nature in times past.

"At the reorganization meeting the board had before it a series of prepared resolutions," he noted. "I believe that all resolutions should be accurately prepared and show the members' voting record."

The board appointed a new Town Clerk, passed resolutions on basic reorganization, adopted wage scales, and Allen announced the appointment of a bookkeeper.

"Under Mrs. Henry Miller, the Town Clerk's office has taken on a new direction," Allen claims. It is open five days a week from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and is open Friday evenings from 7 to 9 to accomodate those who cannot come to transact business during regular hours.

Concerning funds, Allen states he has prepared charts depicting where the monies come from and where they are going. "I plan to keep each board member and department informed as to the town's expenditures," he vows, "and I plan to maintain strict controls over our town's finances."

Much reorganization of the town's books was also necessary when Allen took office in January, and he says that many hours with the Town Clerk have been spent pursuing this object.

Decision Date Set For Paltz Budget

NEW PALTZ — New Paltz Village Board of Trustees will make their final decision on the 1970-71 budget at the regular board meeting, April 27, with no changes expected for the $482,299, package following Monday's budget hearing, according to Clerk-Treasurer Wilbur Fredenburgh.

The clerk-treasurer described the hearing as "routine" with few residents in attendance and with fewer questions. He said no objection to the measure that will raise taxes by 75 cents per thousand was heard at the brief session.

With items up slightly in many categories, the budget shows a tax rate of $45.75 per thousand of assessed valuation, and calls for the raising of $165,591 by taxes.

A breakdown of the budget shows $319,193.50 in the general fund, up some $17,000 over last year; $107,538.50 in the village water fund, up some $9,000 over last year; and $55,567.50 in the sewer fund, up some $3,000.

Revenues other than taxes are expected to bring in $316,707.80 of the grand total, according to the preliminary budget.

11-Year-Old Girl Held On Ellenville Bomb Call

ELLENVILLE — An 11-year-old girl under questioning by police and state troopers late Tuesday, reportedly admitted she had telephoned a bomb threat to Ellenville High School on Monday and another to police headquarters yesterday afternoon.

Police said investigation is still underway and no charge as yet has been lodged against the girl. She gave no reason for the calls, which proved false.

Investigation also is continuing into another bomb threat telephoned to the school shortly after noon yesterday. Police said the caller had a male voice.

The first call was received at the school at 8:07 a.m. Monday and school officials immediately vacated the building without incident. Classes were resumed after village police and state troopers completed a search of the building and found nothing.

At 12:15 p.m. yesterday, another call was received by telephone at the school, causing evacuation of the building and search by authorities before classes were resumed.

At 1:17 p.m. yesterday, a call was received at police headquarters reporting a bomb would explode in the basement. A thorough search disclosed no bomb.

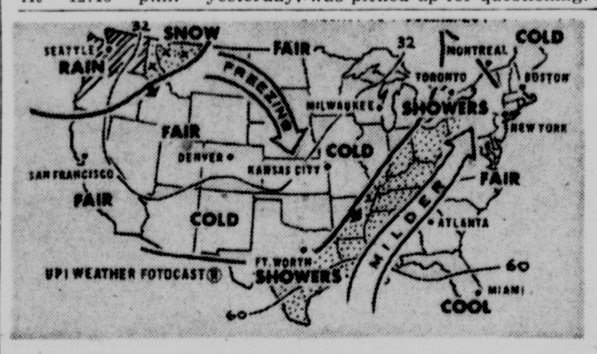

Police said that through the New York Telephone Company the call to headquarters was traced and last night the girl was picked up for questioning.

Be Patient Census Clerk Advises Public

POUGHKEEPSIE — Mrs. Betty Cobb, administrative clerk at the district census office in Poughkeepsie, has advised those persons who have not as yet been contacted by a census taker to be patient, we'll get to you."

Mrs. Cobb said that Census Day, April 1, was only the beginning of a 3-5 week census taking period. Residents were mistaken in believing that the entire census would be taken on that day, Mrs. Cobb said.

"Everyone will be contacted personally," Mrs. Cobb said. "Those persons who work in the day will be contacted during the evening or on Saturdays. We ask the people to fill out the forms, keep them handy and be patient."

Drop Food, Water, Ammunition

Cargo Planes Aid Beret Camp Defenders

SAIGON (UPI) — Low-flying U.S. cargo planes ran the gauntlet of antiaircraft fire today to drop nine loads of food, water and ammunition to the encircled defenders of the Dak Seang Green Beret camp today.

More fighting was reported around the besieged fortress on the Laotian border.

The C7 Caribou transport planes, picking their way around jungle ridgelines before dawn, dropped the supplies by parachute into the beleaguered camp. The groundfire they survived has been described as some of the heaviest in the Vietnam War.

"There is still fighting going on between the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) and the enemy," military spokesmen said. "There is still a significant presence of the enemy in the area."

There were no immediate details.

May Have 10,000 Troops

Military sources have said the North Vietnamese may have as many as 10,000 troops in the seven miles between Dak Seang and Laos, seven miles away. The Hanoi forces appear to be laying siege to Dak Seang in an effort to cut Highway 14, linking the important Central Highlands cities of Pleiku and Kontum.

A South Vietnamese ranger battalion killed 110 of the North Vietnamese Tuesday in fighting five miles south of Dak Seang.

U.S. B52s came in during the night to drop 300 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese positions.

Three Caribou cargo planes have been shot down trying to parachute supplies to Dak Seang, killing nine Americans. The base has been accessible only by air since the North Vietnamese are dug in as close as 30 yards from the camp's barbed wire fence, rendering the airstrip useless.

Two 122mm rockets smashed into the outpost Tuesday night. There were no casualties. Seventeen rocket, mortar and recoilless rifle rounds also hit Ben Het Green Beret camp 12 miles to the southeast Tuesday night, military spokesmen said.

Fly Eight Other Missions

The B52s flew eight other missions in South Vietnam Wednesday, hitting targets along the Cambodian border. For the first time since the United States began disclosing air strikes in neighboring Laos on March 16, no B52 raids were reported against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The U.S. Command reported the loss of two more American fighter-bombers in Laos but said both crewmen were rescued unhurt.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops elsewhere shelled 33 Allied installations Tuesday night and today. The attacks killed four Americans and wounded 15, military spokesmen said.

One of the nine U.S. targets shelled was Da Nang Air Base, hit by eight 122mm rockets. Ten 82mm mortar rounds hit Phan Rang Air Base, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon. Damage was light and there were no casualties in both cases.

Communiques said ground fighting was light Tuesday, with seven Americans killed and 44 wounded. One American was killed and two wounded when groundfire shot down a U.S. medical evacuation helicopter 48 miles northwest of Saigon.

Glasco Water Main Rupture Now Repaired

BARCLAY HEIGHTS

A Glasco Water District main break reported early Tuesday morning has been repaired without interruption of service, Fred Francello, district superintendent said Wednesday.

A water main break was reported by the state police at the intersection of Willow and Birchwood Drive West, Francello said and Spinnenweber Construction Co., Inc., Port Ewen was called to make the repairs. There was a break at two joints, he said.

Support Base Shelled By Vietnamese Rockets

VIENTIANE (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops slammed 20 rockets into the U.S. support base at Long Cheng late Tuesday and early today, shelled an outpost nearby and attacked a third government camp on the ground.

It was the first shelling of Long Cheng in a week.

The increase in fighting was reported by military sources as Prince Souvanna Phouma met with his cabinet to discuss a reply to the five-point Pathet Lao peace proposal calling for an end to the U.S. bombing.

Field reports said 10 rockets hit Long Cheng late Tuesday and another 10 slammed in after dawn today, destroying six huts occupied by war refugees but apparently causing no casualties.

Long Cheng is headquarters for the clandestine army of Gen. Vang Pao, a band of 7,000 Meo hill tribesmen trained, equipped and supplied by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. It is 75 miles northeast of Vientiane.

Another salvo of guerrilla shells hit the nearby government outpost at Tha Tam Bleung and military sources said U.S. fighter-bombers were called in to silence the heavy mortar. No casualties were reported.

The ground attack involved an estimated 750 North Vietnamese troops who tried early Tuesday to overrun the Laotian camp at Bouam Long, one of the last government positions northeast of the Plain of Jars.

Military sources said the attack was repulsed, with one Laotian soldier wounded against unknown guerrilla losses. The North Vietnamese kept the camp under attack with mortars and rockets following the ground assault.

Long Cheng and Sam Thong, its sister base, remained closed to fixed-wing supply planes this morning because of the presence of North Vietnamese antiaircraft gunners nearby.

Helicopters were used instead to keep the bases supplied.

An estimated 4,000 refugees have moved back into the Long Cheng area at Vang Pao's urging after leaving the region when the North Vietnamese moved in two weeks ago.

THE NEWLYWED

Stalin's Daughter Marries Architect

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Svetlana Alliluyeva, youngest daughter of Soviet dictator Josef Stalin, and architect William Wesley Peters were married Tuesday in a secret ceremony.

The wedding, attended only by a few friends and associates was conducted at Taliesin West, the residence of Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, widow of the famous architect, and headquarters of the Wright Foundation.

Peters, chief architect for the organization, was formerly married to Svetlana Lloyd Wright, daughter of the late architect. Mrs Peters was killed in an auto accident in Wisconsin in 1946.

Miss Alliluyeva, 44, who fled from the Iron Curtain to the United States in 1967, met Peters at the desert architectural school northeast of here last month. It was her fifth marriage.

Word of the marriage leaked out after it was learned the couple had quietly obtained a marriage license Monday and had received special Superior Court permission to waive the state's three-day waiting period.

Peters, 58, who also is vice president of the foundation, had worked with Wright since 1932. His designs include numerous churches, community developments, university buildings and a palace and residence for the Princess Shans Pahlavi of Iran.

In January, the Soviet Union, where Miss Alliluyeva's grown son and daughter still live, announced it had stripped her of her citizenship. "They did exactly what I wanted them to do," she said at the time.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Raymond G. Manker, of the First Unitarian Universalist Church of Phoenix.

The couple will reside at Taliesin West in the winter months and at the original Taliesin in Spring Green, Wis., the rest of the year.

Sen. Kennedy . . . A Big Sigh of Relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, showing relief, says he hopes the grand jury's decision to end its investigation into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne will bring the case to a close.

"I'm obviously very much satisfied that the district attorney and the attorney general and the grand jury didn't feel that there were matters that should be pursued," Kennedy told reporters Tuesday after learning that the Dukes County Grand Jury in Edgartown, Mass., had voted no indictments after a two-day inquiry.

"I'm hopeful that we're reaching the end of this for the sake of all the people involved," he said. "It's been a very difficult time and it's a great tragedy."

It was almost nine months ago—last July 18—that Kennedy's car ran off a bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, causing Miss Kopechne's death.

The senator said he would now devote his time to winning reelection.

"I expect to run in Massachusetts for the U.S. Senate and I expect to serve the full six years," Kennedy said, again disclaiming any intentions to seek the presidency in 1972.

Kennedy said he would release a statement when District Attorney Edmund S. Denis files a formal report on the grand jury's action.

Meanwhile, a fourth investigation into the death of Miss Kopechne lasted only three hours and 15 minutes. It added nothing to the public knowledge of what happened on Chappaquiddick Island, but did open the way for the release of the secret inquest into Miss Kopechne's death.

The Dukes County Grand Jury questioned four persons peripherally connected with the Kopechne case Tuesday, then announced it had no action to take.

District Attorney Edmund Dinis said this meant the case was closed and he would notify the Superior Court clerk there was no proposed prosecution. This would allow release of the impounded inquest transcript under state Supreme Court rules.

It should be made public in a few days.

Miss Kopechne, 28, drowned in Kennedy's car. Twenty grand jurors sat two hours and 15 minutes Monday and one hour Tuesday, at standard pay of $14 per day, to question the four persons.

Was it, in effect, a token investigation? The special session was requested March 17 by the jury foreman, and Dinis on March 24 concurred in the request. Shortly before 11 a.m. Tuesday, the foreman, Leslie H. Leland, reported to the judge: "The grand jury has no presentments (indictments)."

It was reported the grand jury had asked for the locked up transcript and the judge's report of the secret inquest here in January—764 pages covering four days of testimony by 27 prime witnesses—and had been denied it.

If that report was correct, why didn't the grand jury, a powerful body, go ahead and call in those same witnesses, launch its own investigation of the case?

An Innocent Verdict For Medicaid 'Father'

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Sen. William E. Adams, R-Kenmore, the "father" of New York's controversial medicaid law, was a free man today after being found innocent on seven counts of perjury and obstruction of justice.

After deliberating nearly five hours, a federal court jury in effect concluded that Adams did not lie when he said he returned a $5,000 campaign contribution from Professional Health Services Inc., a firm that collects medical bills for doctors.

"Not guilty on all counts," jury foreman Mrs. Ann G. Levine told a hushed courtroom.

There was a gasp of pleased surprise from Adams' wife, Jacqueline. The senator, tense and tired from the ordeal that began six months ago when he was indicted, half rose, then sat back again in his seat at the defense table.

"The verdict speaks for itself and the verdict spoke for me," Adams told reporters later. Husband and wife broke into broad grins for the first time since the trial began a week ago.

When asked if he still planned to seek a third term in the Senate, Adams told reporters "there's been no change in that." He had announced his intentions of seeking re-election months ago and had requested an early trial to clear the matter up before campaigning began.

Adams' indictment last October as part of a federal probe of medicaid irregularities hit the legislature like a bombshell. The 46-year-old lawmaker was one of the most respected members of the Senate and is considered an expert in the field of social services.

H has sponsored the bulk of the legislation concerning medicaid and related social services subjects.

Adams could have received a maximum of 35 years in jail and a fine of $26,000 on the seven charges.

Federal attorneys said Adams was a man "hungry for money" and claimed he used the $5,000 contribution to help pay off a $8,000 loan. They said Adams lied when he told a federal grand jury he returned the money to the firm.

It was also alleged that the legislators tried to persuade two officials of the firm, Melvin Shilling and Arthur Weglein, to tell the grand jury the money was returned.

But Adams' lawyers told the jury in his summation that Weglein and Shilling were "nothing but thieving, conniving stock jobbers."

The two men have pleaded guilty to violating rules laid down by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Adams' attorney, Charles J. McDonough of Buffalo, said the pair testified against the senator in hopes of winning leniency in their own case.

Rifle, Slug Admitted in Evidence As Trammel Trial Continues

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — A .22 caliber single shot rifle allegedly used in the fatal shooting of 51-year-old Angel Rivera last Aug. 28, and a lead slug authorities say caused the man's death, went into evidence Tuesday afternoon at the murder trial of 52-year-old Alonzer Trammel.

The sixth day of trial moved slowly and was marked by unexpected delays when prosecution witnesses were late in arriving at County Court where the trial is being held before Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury.

The rifle and lead slug were admitted as evidence by Judge Mino over the objections of defense attorney, Francis Martocci.

Witnesses yesterday included Dr. Roberto E. Benitez, pathologist, who testified about the results of an autopsy he performed on Rivera at the morgue. Dr. Benitez testified that the examination showed a wound in the victim's back on the right side which he assumed was the point of entry of a bullet, and another wound on the front of the man's body which he said was apparently the point of exit of the missile.

The witness testified that the right lobe, or about two-thirds of Rivera's liver had been removed during an emergency operation, after he was admitted at Benedictine Hospital on the day of the shooting which occurred in a lot off Field Court.

Under direct examination by James H. Kerr, assistant district attorney, Dr. Benitez said that in his opinion the competant and producing cause of death was massive destruction of tissues and vital organs and hemorrhages.

The witness said under cross-examination that he never saw the clothing worn by Rivera when he was brought to the hospital. He admitted that his testimony about the wounds on the victim's body was based on assumption.

Sergeant Otto Short, who was a detective in August, produced a .22-caliber rifle, which he said was the one he picked up in bushes off Converse Street, where a previous witness said he had left the gun and ammunition he claimed had been purchased by Trammel the day of the shooting.

Martocci objected to admitting the rifle in evidence, contending it had not been shown for identification by George Bailey, who led Short to the hiding place where the gun was found.

Detective Joseph Feraca produced a lead slug, which he said had been given to him by a surgeon at the hospital, who told him the slug was the one that was found on a hospital stretcher where Rivera was lying.

Under cross-examination the witness said he was not present when the slug was found by the surgeon.

Other witnesses for the People included Michael Spada, operator of a Broadway sporting goods store, where Trammel allegedly bought the rifle, and Dr. Thomas Lee, attending surgeon at Benedictine Hospital who operated on Rivera. Dr. Lee also testified that in his opinion a bullet entered the victim's back and exited through the front. He said in his opinion death of the man was due to failure of the liver and massive hemorrhages.

Former Board Member To Seek Rhinebeck Post

RHINEBECK — Former Rhinebeck Board of Education member James Kelly told The Freeman Tuesday that he intends to try to recapture a seat in the May elections.

Kelly was ousted at the end of his last term by newcomer James Cecil in 1969 in an upset. The seat being vacated this year is currently held by board President Robert W. Asher.

Kelly owns and operates a laundromat in Rhinebeck, and said he would like to continue working with the school board. He mentioned the possibility of new construction during the next few years to cope with population trends.

The former board member was involved in the narcotics code committee both before and after his term. The code was subsequently adopted by the board.

Kelly has no children remaining in school, and lives at 3 Huntington Road. He served a total of two years on the board, fulfilling the unexpired term of another member.

Another Rhinebeck resident, Henry J. Muller of Ackert Hook Road, has expressed some interest in running for the seat. Muller told The Freeman that he had taken out a petition but had not yet made up his mind about running. Muller is a teacher at Dutchess County Community College.

All persons seeking the board of education seat must have petitions returned to the board by April 22 with at least 25 signatures endorsing each candidate.

Fire Ends Accord Maple Processing

ACCORD — The maple harvest has been at its peak during the last two days but for the Rider syrup operation in Accord the season is over.

Fire Sunday night destroyed the evaporator facilities at the plant putting Franklin and Guy Rider out of operation for this year. Franklin Rider today estimated damage from the undetermined blaze at $700. The Accord Fire Company responded to the call at about 7 p.m. Sunday but the fire was out by the time the volunteers arrived. The building was saved but the evaporator equipment was completely destroyed.

Franklin Rider said that they will not replace the equipment this year but hope to be ready for maple syrup manufacture next spring.

This year's maple syrup has been of unusually good quality, according to Rider.

John Wayne...A Tearful Award

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—John Wayne, 62, brushing a tear from his eye, won the Oscar for best actor, Maggie Smith for best actress and "Midnight Cowboy" the best picture of the year at the 42nd annual Academy Awards presentations Tuesday.

Wayne accepted the Oscar for his role as a hard-drinking, rough-riding lawman in "True Grit." He was a sentimental favorite for his 35 years of stardom in adventure and Western films.

Miss Smith was voted best actress for playing a pathetic but gallant spinster in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," a tragi-comedy set in an English girls school.

"Midnight Cowboy," the story of two down-and-out young men in contemporary New York City, won three Oscars in all, including best screenplay and best direction by John Schlesinger.

Best supporting actor was Gig Young for his difficult role as the jaded emcee of the depression days dance marathon in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

Surprise winner of the evening was television comedienne Goldie Hawn, a regular on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," for best supporting actress in "Cactus Flower," playing a dingaling blonde.

The Los Angeles Music Center audience was primed when Wayne was announced as best actor.

The big man lumbered to the stage and told the crowd he was no stranger to the Oscar program, had accepted statuettes for friends, including Gary Cooper, in the past.

Backstage he said, "You don't think that you'll get all excited and all gooey inside, but when it happens to you, you do. When I heard my name called I didn't know whether to stand up or to run."

Only Wayne and Young among the top winners were present. It was the first award for each. Said Young, "This was definitely my best role."

Composer Burt Bacharach won two Oscars, for his score of "Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid" and for the best song in films during the year, "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head."

Presentations were made by the biggest names in Hollywood: Frank Sinatra, Raquel Welch, Candy Bergen, Cliff Robertson, Elizabeth Taylor, Barbra Streisand and others.

A tumultous tribute was paid Cary Grant who has never won an Academy Award in his four decades in Hollywood motion pictures. He was presented an Oscar for his contribution to movies following a series of clips from his films going back to 1932.

The academy voted the Jean Hersholt Award for Humanitarianism to George Jessel.

Irrespressible Bob Hope quipped about the trend toward nudity and sex on the screen and, by prearrangement, coaxed Fred Astaire, 70, into dancing for the first time at an Academy Awards presentation.

Best Costume Design

Best costume design went to Margaret Furse for the pagentry in "Anne of the Thousand Days."

"Z," filmed in Algeria and dealing with the recent Greek revolution, was voted best foreign film of the year. Banned in many countries, "Z" broke precedent by being the only picture in academy history to be nominated both best picture and best foreign picture (with subtitles).

Celebrities arriving for the awards were jeered by demonstrators carrying placards asking for more film work by Mexican-American performers and craftsmen.

The show itself, however, was uninterrupted and ran more than two hours.

After the awards were announced and the show completed, the winners, losers and presenters drove 15 miles to Beverly Hills to celebrate Oscar's 42nd birthday at the academy's Governor's Ball.

Marijuana Smoking: Opinions and Facts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government health agency says while there is no scientific evidence that marijuana smoking leads automatically to hard drugs, serious questions remain about the effects of its chronic use.

The National Institute of Mental Health said in a paper released Tuesday by a House crime committee the question of possible brain damage from chronic use of strong marijuana preparations such as hashish still is unanswered.

And any authoritative conclusions on long-term marijuana effects are premature until present studies are completed, hopefully in two years, the institute said.

The questions and key portions of answers based on three years of NIMH-directed studies:

Q. Should marijuana be classified with the dangerous drugs and narcotics?

A. Marijuana is not a narcotic and was included in that (federal) statutory category incorrectly. Marijuana is a mild hallucinogen. At our present level of knowledge it should be included in the group of dangerous drugs, along with other hallucinogens, stimulants and sedatives.

Q. Is it meaningful to speak of physical or psychological dependency with respect to marijuana?

A. Physical dependency or true addiction does not occur. Psychological dependency is well known in this country and abroad.

Q. Does marijuana use create an attitude that makes it easier or in some cases inevitable for the user to drift into use of other dangerous drugs or "hard narcotics?"

A. In studies which have been done to attempt to answer this question, a third to a half of all chronic marijuana users will also try amphetamines, barbiturates, and less than 5 per cent will try narcotics, like heroin.

About 85 per cent of all heroin addicts admit prior marijuana smoking. Those who do progress to heroin are usually the most emotionally disturbed group.

Q. Does marijuana use cause any organic brain damage or does it have any toxic effect on the body?

A. We do not know. In some countries of the Middle East and Near East, where cannibus preparations have been a part of the culture, it is believed chronic use of the strong preparations, such as hashish, is associated with psychosis and brain damage in some people.

It is difficult to evaluate these statements because of the lack of psychiatric sophistication of the observers . . . Studies to validate or repudiate these statements are needed and are being pursud.

Marijuana in sufficient dosage will intoxicate during the period of acticity . . . We have no evidence that single doses produce prolonged effects except in extremely rare instances.

Q. Does marijuana use affect intellectual ability?

A. Here an analogy to alcohol is appropriate. Small amounts may produce little disturbance of the intellect; large amounts definitely impair logical thinking and rational functioning.

Q. Does the psychology of the marijuana user have a relationship to the use of other drugs and stimulants?

A. The chronic abuser of marijuana is more likely to become involved in other mood-altering chemicals probably because the excessive user has a more disturbed personality structure.

Q. Is there any medical justification for the rather prevailing opinion that marijuana use may lead to heroin addiction?

A. There is no scientific justification for the opinion that marijuana predisposes to heroin addiction.

When you buy any Impala V8 model during our "400" Sale, here's how you can get two popular extras at no extra charge.

You order your Impala equipped with a Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, radio, Comfortilt steering wheel, front and rear bumper guards and white stripe tires. Items you'd probably order anyway.

Then we add our big 400-cubic-inch V8 at 265 hp that runs on regular gas, along with dual exhausts—both at no charge. (The manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal excise tax for the regular fuel 400 V8 and dual exhausts is $93.75.)

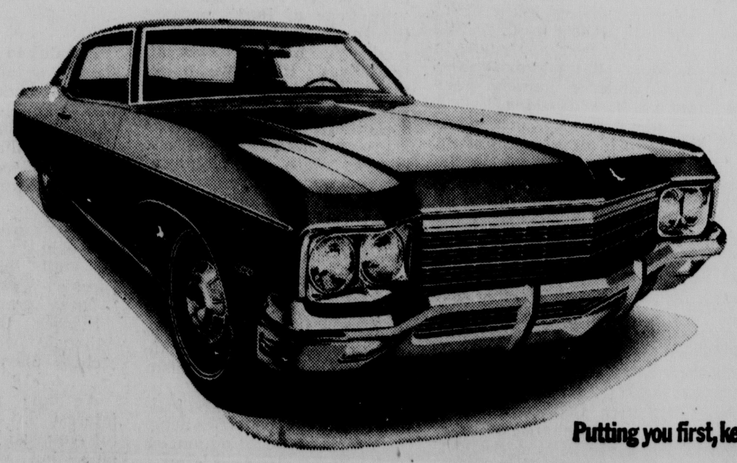

But that's only the beginning. Because your Chevrolet dealer is really anxious to deal these days.

And the Impala you're buying, of course, got to be America's No. 1 car, because of all the value features built right in. Features like flush-and-dry rocker panels that fight rust. Inner fenders to protect the outer fenders. Long lasting bias belted ply tires, steel guard beams in every door for added protection, an acrylic lacquer finish over its solid Body by Fisher.

All of which contributes to Impala's traditionally high resale value, too.

You're getting America's No. 1 car on sale. The car more people buy—year after year after year.

How can you beat that?

Trustees and School Budget

As representatives of the people of the school district, members of the Board of Education of Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) hold the legal responsibility for public education in the district. In a consolidated district, they alone have the final say on the budget and on school policy. Taxpayers do not have the authority to approve or disapprove of school budget expenses.

Entrusted with the responsibility of adopting the annual budget to finance the operations of the schools, the trustees are accountable for capital outlay and other matters of policy and applicable business concerning the welfare of the schools. In other words, the entire school budget is immune from the voters and taxpayers.

Since the taxpayers are stripped of the authority to pass on the school budget, it is of vital importance that the best qualified people available in the Kingston School District be nominated and elected to this important position of trust. Professional educators need the local leadership of able, conscientious citizens willing to give of their time in support of their public schools and the children who attend them. Local business, professional and industrial leaders should take an active part in conducting the business of their local schools by becoming candidates for the school board.

The administration of our schools is an essential government function and the expenditures for the educational system, as all property owners are well aware, are among the largest that local taxpayers must meet every year. Trustees should see that all budget items are essential and that school business is administered competently and economically.

Candidates seeking to become members should be familiar with the needs of the schools and the services which they offer. They also should have the backbone to tackle the teacher salary contracts and to seek the elimination of all positions that are not indispensable such as teacher consultants, extra vice principals, department heads and guidance personnel in the lower grades and assistants to the assistants and their secretaries.

In no way will these controls on expenditures shortchange the children by lowering the quality of the education they receive.

Two trustees to the Board of Education of Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) will be elected to five-year terms at the annual election on May 5. Nominating petitions signed by a minimum of 100 qualified voters of the district must be submitted to the clerk of the board at the George Washington School office not later than April 15 by 5 p.m.

Texas has started a long prison term trend. A rapist was sentenced March 18 to 800 years in prison, a robber to 1,000 years on February 26, and on March 28 the longest sentence of all, 1001 years was given a rapist. The juries are trying to make sure the offenders will not escape the full penalty of their offenses.

Taking into consideration the source, Tea World, published by the Tea Board of Calcutta, India, it is interesting to learn that "unknown constituents" in tea check the hardening of the coronary artery, which leads to heart attacks. For substantiation, it cites the low incidence of heart disease among Chinese, heavy tea drinkers. If research can isolate the balm in tea, we would have it without the harmful caffeine or tannin contents.

Wildcat Strikes Increase When Laws Aren't Enforced

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of millions of dollars have been lost to the economy in recent days and more will be in the future unless Congress takes punitive and preventive action against wildcat strikes. Deliveries through the mails and by air have been delayed, and this has affected many business transactions and the shipment of goods. Now unauthorized strikes have produced further losses in the transportation of goods by truck in different parts of the country.

There was a time when collective bargaining was supposed to be an orderly method whereby unions negotiated with employers and approved contracts made. But rarely has there been so much disruption as exists today due to a complete disregard by workers of the acts of their own union officers and leaders.

Congress has been in session but has taken no action. Many businesses which are incurring damage are not going to be reimbursed, and it is possible that the concept of wildcat strikes has been encouraged rather than discouraged by the latest developments.

Even within the federal government, the employes have shown an indifference to statutes forbidding strikes. No measures have been passed to compensate businessmen for the losses they have suffered through delays in transportation caused by illegal strikes of government workers.

Perhaps "collective bargaining" should be defined by law to include penalties for those individuals who engage in wildcat strikes. For their acts amount, in effect, to a form of extortion. They will not sign agreements unless extreme demands are met.

In one of the current strikes, the excuse given is that the employes are "sick." Yet, it is commonly known that this is in most instances a circumvention. But there is no penalty imposed for the use of a "sickness" alibi when participating in a wildcat strike against the government.

The right to strike has been unheld by the courts and has been generally accepted as a fundamental principle of labor relations. But there is no right to destory private property or interrupt the normal course of business without warning. Federal statutes could certainly provide that labor agreements should be for a fixed period and that discussions must be completed within a certain time before work stoppages are permitted. This at least would afford business an opportunity for substitute arrangements to be made.

Businessmen make contracts to deliver their goods on specific dates, and they do so on the assumption that transportation facilities will be available to them. But when strikes occur, they have no way of recovering their losses. In the case of illegal strikes by government employes, there certainly is an obligation those citizens who are damaged by such work stoppages. The whole subject deserves immediate attention by both houses of Congress.

Estimates vary as to the amount of damage done by delayed mail in the letter-carriers strike, by the air-travel delays, and now by the wildcat strikes of the truckers. But it is safe to say that American business has suffered extensively in different parts of the country, and many products that depend on prompt transportation in order to maintain a regular flow of sales have had their deliveries seriously impaired.

The emphasis thus far has been on the mistakes of the government in handling its wage problems. Secretary of Labor Shultz expresses the belief that government officials, from city hall to the national capital, have been failing to deal efficiently with their workers. He says:

"Governments are not model employers by a long shot. Not only the federal government but state and local governments have a lot to do in this area."

But what has emerged in the last few weeks are new acts of defiance and irresponsibility as the rank and file of many labor unions have ignored the appeals of their leaders. Even though agreements are reached with employers to begin negotiations, pleas to return to work have been ignored. The government itself has failed to enforce the laws which make strikes by federal employes illegal, and wildcat strikes have increased instead of diminished not only among federal employes but in unions which deal with industrial operations of the utmost importance.

Jack Anderson Says
Bickering, Back-Biting Within The Kremlin May Have Worsened

WASHINGTON — There have been rumblings lately of dissension inside the Kremlin, hushed hints that some top leaders might even be purged.

The whispers are doubted by the State Department's specialists in Soviet affairs, whose business it is to try to fathom what goes on behind the Kremlin's impenetrable, pastel walls.

They understand that bickering and backbiting between the top Soviet leaders may have worsened. But U.S. experts don't think it's serious enough to bring the downfall of party boss Leonid Brezhnev or Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Within the all-powerful Politburo, there has been deepening dissatisfaction over the economic slippage. Instead of overtaking the U.S., as their leaders had boasted, Russia is actually in danger of falling behind Japan in economic production.

The Soviet growth rate is dropping; labor productivity is lagging; the harvests have been poor. Meat has been so scarce that the Soviets have been obliged to make large purchases of beef, pork and poultry from Australia, Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, New Zealand and West Germany.

Kremlin High Living

All this reportedly has caused personality clashes inside the Politburo, particularly between the austere, ascetic old Bolshevik, Mikhail Suslov, and the high-living, party-loving Brezhnev. Suslov, significantly was the shadowy figure behind the scenes who engineered ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev's ouster.

It is understood that Suslov, frugal in his own habits, disapproves of Brezhnev's expensive, vodka-and-caviar tastes. With Russia in the economic doldrums, Suslov reportedly believes the leaders should set a personal example of austerity. He considers Brezhnev's example bad for communist morale, which, he feels, must not be sapped away by pleasant dreams of good living.

There reportedly has been rivalry, too, between the party faction, led by Brezhnev, and the government faction, led by Kosygin. Both factions, aparently, tend to blame one another for the upheaval inside the communist bloc, which brought Russia to the brink of war with her chief ally, Red China, and led to an invasion of Czechoslovakia to prevent a breakaway.

Some U.S. experts suspect that the Kremlin is in the hands of secondrate party hacks, who survived the Stalin purges because they didn't do enough original thinking to get themselves in trouble. Some of them, therefore, are characterized more by rigid ideology than the flexibility needed to cope with the changing times. This frequently happens when a strong man is succeeded by those who lived in his shadow.

To supress public restiveness, the leaders have revived some Stalinist measures to repress freedoms. This has caused deep discontent, which may be hard to control.

The communist prophet, Lenin, warned that a government like a boiler would blow up if it allowed the pressure to build up. He was talking about capitalist governments, but his analysis, ironically, may now apply to the government he helped to found.

Wong in Wrong

This column recently reported how Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel had played loose with the law, so his favorite decorator in Seattle could do the refurbishing job on his government office. A third of the $28,000 cost is going to the Seattle decorator.

Now we have leaned that Hickel has minipulated the law in another case to get $2,700 in travel expenses for Dr. Chung-ming Wong, the lord high supervisor of saline water at the Interior Department.

Dr. Wong, an ex-lieutenant in the Nationalist Chinese Air Force and a Ph.D. from Columbia University, came to Washington from the McDonnell Douglas Corporation at Huntington Beach, Calif.

Hickel put him in saline water on July 28, 1969.

Wong told this column that Interior had agreed to pay his moving expenses when he took the $33,495-a-year job. But he became so busy with the problems of saline water that he didn't get around to bringing his household east until last month.

Thus it happened that Hickel, belatedly, had to make good his promise. But alas, the bureaucrats had goofed; they had left no way to pay Wong the $2,400 to move his furniture and the $300 to fly his family to Washington.

Hickel's henchmen, therefore, prevailed on James C. Spry, executive assistant to the Civil Service Commission, to insert a strange, little notice in an obscure section of the Federal Register:

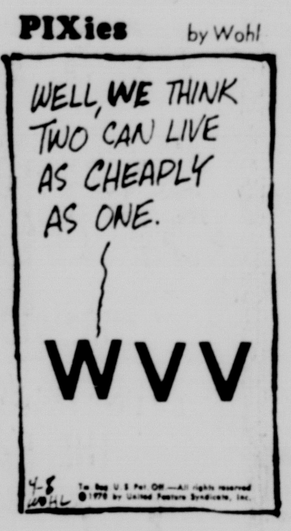

"The Civil Service Commission has found, effective March 4, 1970"—seven months after Wong took the saline water job—"that there is a manpower shortage for the single position of Director, Office of Saline Water . . . The appointee may be paid for the expense of travel and transportation."

Spry explained that he inserted the notice at Interior's request. Only by pretending there was presently a "manpower shortage" for the post, already filled by Wong for seven months, could the expense money legally be slipped to him. Ordinary government jobs don't call for moving expenses.

"Interior should have applied for expenses before they hired him," said Spry. "They found they had slipped up. Then, I think this was the only way for them to do it."

Note: While Hickel was paying out $28,500 of the taxpayers' money to remodel his office and dining room, Wong was having a mini-refurbishing job done on his five offices for $5,551.06. Much of the money went for carpets, curtains and three new chairs.

Henry J. Taylor Says
Pope Paul's Cruel Dilemma

A private evening with a very high Vatican official is informative in the American interest. For there are 580 million Roman Catholics worldwide and within the Church are so consequential that American foreign policy dedicated to stabilizing the free world is deeply affected.

Pope Paul VI rules from a Vatican where a predecessor (Urban VIII) had Galielo arrested for claiming the earth revolved. Can we imagine such acoustics of time? Paint cracks, canvas, decays. Two thousand years. The Papacy. Who can conceive of anything so prodigious? But the high ecclesiastic used and emphasized the Italian world aggironamento, which means "catching-up-with-today," and sees Pope Paul caught in a series of circumstances and confusions that have hands as hard as a metal bar.

The adored Pope John XXIII, who, as he lay dying in 1963, prayed the simple prayers he had learned as a child, was chosen at his advanced age as a interim Pope. Pope Paul, in turn, although markedly different, was almost the predestined successor. And, in their intimacy, the Vatican official finds Paul a kindly, scholarly Pope of quiet, personal charm and an immense concern with humanity and the physical and other conditions that debase it.

The French Communists outrageously call Pope Paul "the Pope of Buts" because they claim he has a habit of qualifying many of his affirmations. His Vatican intimate, instead, sees him something like Hamlet.

Hamlet regarded himself as a procrastinator. He was not; he was really the victim of the current confusions and pressures. The official said some ecclesiastics in Rome ask if the Church has a Hamlet on its hands.

He made it clear that, externally, Pope Paul's overriding dilemma centers on how to make the Church effective in the worldwide battle against communism which we share.

Throughout the predominantly Catholic countries nearly every local Communist party leader claims—claims—he is a Catholic. "I go to church with you," he shouts at village meetings. "I believe the Pope should run the Church. I believe the priest should run his parish. But not our village."

Countless Catholics the world over say, "Yes, yes," to this. For there is a widespread and intense anticlerical feeling when it comes to how much the Church should have to say about the government.

Thus the Vatican official defined the Pope's cruel dilemma: If the Church intensifies and expands its political action against the Communist party, the Communists flame with false rightousness and roar, "Just as we said! The Vatican is trying to run the government!" The intervention boomerangs among millions; and the youth, especially, are alienated.

On the other hand, if the Church backs away, a political vacuum results. And the Communists fill that vacuum, for they have made it their business to supercharge this situation and box in the Church, their most poweful spiritual and moral opponent.

Internally, the Vatican official finds the Pope's most crucial problem to be the question of hierarchy — the traditional authority of the Pope himself, the nuncios, the cardinals and bishops, and how they arrive at that authority.

He pointed to Belgian Cardinal Suenens' movement advocating that a "Copernican revolution" should upend the hierarchical pyramid of the Church; the protesting clergy at the consecration of French Cardinal Danielou; the 10 rebel priests whose petitions swamped the 10 bishops meeting last summer at Char, Switzerland, to discuss the problems of priests; the open survey conducted by Dutch priests challenging compulsory clerical celibacy; and, finally, the clerical revolt in the United States and elsewhere against Pope Paul's most-criticized act — his condemnation of all but the Ogino method of birth control.

The Vatican ecclesiastic estimated that, tragically, in this turmoil at least 7,000 of the 70,000 priests in Italy have left the priesthood and showed me the internal statistics from 110 U.S. dioceses revealing that although the percentage is small, more than 1,000 quit here last year and abo t 6,000 of the 167,000 nuns in the United States renounced their vows.

He described the Pope's fundamental problem as how to hold fast to mankind's elevation through the authority of the Church while at the same time modifying the Church's methods in a gradual aggiornamento. And this distinguished visitor expressed great confidence in Pope Paul's ability to do it.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a lady I don't know, whom I cannot forget . . . She comes to mind on random days and she is not easy to erase. She is short and plump, a year this or that side of sixty, has black hair and dark eyes, a broad nose and a timid smile. She has no business intruding inside my head, walking up and down in that cheap blue cotton print dress, because she says nothing, does nothing.

We met but once. The Bishops flew with Howard Newman from Honolulu to Molokai. Honolulu is granulated sand, modern hotels, rain forests and friendliness. The Hawaiian Islands are like stepping stones in a Japanese pond. The high blue Pacific waves scrub the beaches and perfume the sky.

We chartered a small plane to go to the next island east, Molokai. The trip requires thirty minutes and Molokai sits high in the Pacific like a chocolate layer cake. It comes up straight in cliffs. At the bottom is a small tongue of land which lays flat against the waves.

Permission had been granted to us to visit this rocky tongue, called Kalaupapa. The pilot brought the plane close to the cliffs, then turned down to that little edge of nothing. Kalaupapa is a leper colony.

The airport consisted of a single runway and a neat shack. There was a gate for lepers and one marked non-lepers. A century ago, valiant ship captains brought lepers here and dumped them over the side into the high seas five hundred feet from shore. If they could swim well, they lived. If not, the salty sea tossed a blue blanket over their miseries. Today, they are flown in, and the disease is called Hansen's — not leprosy. Inside the leprosy gate, Mrs. Cecilia Akana smiled her timid smile and pointed to the non-leper gate. She is Hawaiian-Chinese. Once, she was a good school teacher. She had a husband and two lovely daughters.

In 1933, she was combing her long black hair and found that she could not feel the comb. She went to a clinic for tests. When the doctors were ready, they asked her to sit down. "No," she said softly, "I do not want to contaminate your chair." She had leprosy. They sent her to Kalaupapa. The little girls, nine and four, were not permitted to kiss their mother goodbye.

She wrote many letters of love and devotion to her husband. There was no response. She lived on that little tongue of land, walking empty streets in hot sunshine, looking up the cliff to see signs of the living. Now there were 196 leapers who lived in cottages or in the paint-peeled hospital.

Civilization is the sound of a small plane coming in. Freedom is a black volcanic stone marking a grave. "I'm not an active case any longer," she said. "That's why the doctor said I could show you around."

The doctor said that the lepers know better than the medicos where to cut off a foot or a hand because they can point to the spot where numbness ends and feeling begins. Some walk on stumps. A painter lost the sight of both eyes. A blind leper with neither fingers nor toes is called a "flipper." When he walks, he must hit the floor hard to hear the sound.

Cecilia Akana is now old. She can go home, but she has none. She lives in a small bungalow with a statue of the Blessed Mother and a holy water font under it. The priest, Father Gustave Fiereines, a Belgian, sometimes marries leper to leper. More often, he buries them.

I asked Mrs. Akana to pose for a picture with us on the steps of the clinic. She stood two steps above. I waved her down. "No, thank you," she said. "I have become accustomed for many years not to touch anyone."

"What do you people need most?" I said. She smiled that old molasses smile. "Not money," she said. "We desperately need something to do. Send us art materials; correspondence courses; yarn and needles; anything."

In the late afternoon, when the little bird was ready, we boarded it to go back to the hustle of Honolulu. The lady with the lumpy face stood in the section marked lepers. I had met her once; I would never see her again.

And yet, from the plane window, I could see the long sad suffering in her eyes. I recalled that she had said she never had a visitor in all those years. Her daughters are now in their forties. They had written that they would come to visit her, not as their mother, but as "a friend." There is a lady I don't know, whom I cannot forget...

Busing Is Opposed; No Racial Prejudice

PRINCETON, N. J., April 8 —"We bought a house here so our children could be within walking distance of the high school. I'd blow by top if all of a sudden they had to be bused clear across town."

This comment, from a 40-year-old mother of three from Des Moines, reflects the views of many other parents interviewed in the latest Gallup survey on the issue of the busing of Negro and white children from one school district to another, a percentage which far exceeds that recorded for many other domestic issues.

By the lopsided margin of 8-to-1, parents vote in opposition to busing, which has been proposed as a means of achieving racial balance in the nation's classrooms.

Not Racial Prejudice

Opposition to busing arises not from racial animosity but from the belief that children should attend neighborhood schools and that busing would mean higher taxes. This is seen from a comparison of attitudes on busing with those on mixed schools.

Among white parents who express opposition to school busing, only one in four (24 per cent) says he would object to sending his children to schools where half of the children are Negroes.

These findings were obtained in a survey conducted March 13-16 in which parents were interviewed in person in all regions of the nation.

Has Sparked Keen Interest

Evidence of the keen interest in the issue is the fact that 94 per cent of parents interviewed say they have heard or read about the busing of Negro and white children from one school district to another, a percentage which far exceeds that recorded for many other domestic issues.

All those who said they had heard or read about the issue were then asked this question:

In general, do you favor or oppose the busing of Negro and white school children from one school district to another?

Here are the views of parents, nationwide:

BUSING?
(Parents — nationwide)

Favor	11%
Oppose	86
No opinion	3

Negro Parents Also Opposed

When Negro parents are asked the same series of questions, the weight of sentiment is found to be against busing.

Southerners are most opposed to busing, but regional differences are not great.

Persons who describe themselves as "liberals" hold views that differ little from those who call themselves "conservatives."

'Not A Race Issue With Me'

A 51-year-old Compton, Calif., housewife said, "I can't see people having to shell out a lot of money to bus kids around town. It's not a race issue with me — it's just doesn't make sense."

A former educator gives another reason for opposing busing: "The time spent on a bus is completely wasted. If the same amount of time were spent in school or at home reading, children could cover at least a fourth more ground a year."

'Best Thing In Long Run'

A 50-year-old Providence trucking executive is on the other side of the issue: "Busing would be the best thing for children in the long run. If whites and blacks get together in the schools, both will learn on an equal level and perhaps future relations between the races will improve."

Also in favor of busing is a Columbia University history professor, who said: "Whites may not like the system, but it's absolutely essential if we're ever to upgrade the quality of black education. We're all just going to sacrifice, that's all."

Stenographic Course Starts Here April 20

KINGSTON — The Kingston Office of the New York State Department of Employment announces the formation of a stenographic training course to begin in Kingston April 20.

Training will be given in stenography, basic education and typist-clerical, for those who can not master stenography after a trial period. The course funded under the New York State Training Program will be conducted for seven hours each day at School Number 4 under the supervision of Loryne Connick of the Kingston Consolidated School System.

The training course will be of 33 weeks duration and training allowances are payable to those who qualify. Allowances consist of a regular weekly payment with dependency and transportation allowances provided where needed.

The course is aimed at those members of low income families who can most benefit from this training, however, anyone interested is advised to contact this office at 16 Pine Grove Avenue. Arrangements will then be made to schedule necessary interviews and aptitude tests.

The last day to apply for this training will be April 14.

Clinic Scheduled

A clinic for immunizations against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Friday, April 17 from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. The clinics serve those who are referred by their physicians or those who are otherwise unable to secure these immunizations.

'Lack of Milk and Honey'

Editor, The Freeman:

In my opinion there is something drastically wrong with an unemployment compensation system such as ours, which allows perfectly able-bodied people to collect up to $50 a week from the taxpayers pocket, rather than do an honest day's work to earn their keep. Not only does this keep our tax level up, it also gives a bad name to those who are in legitimate need on unemployment funds. What has happened to the pride that used to be taken in making one's own way in life and doing a good job of it?

I recently had two seperate experiences which made me fully aware for the first time of the extent to which our unemployment laws are taken advantage of. Our motor lodge, as well as most others, is constantly in need of persons to do chambermaid work. While interviewing a woman for such a job, I informed her that she would begin at the minimum wage per hour for a 40-hour week with time and a half for work on Sundays. She refused to take the position, saying she could collect almost that amount in unemployment compensation, so it would not be worth her while to take the job. A few days later an employe on our payroll told me she was just waiting to be fired so that she could sit back, relax, and collect unemployment checks.

All I can say is that it's a good thing everyone doesn't share these attitudes. If all of us decided to stop working and let the government support us, this country would really be in trouble. Apparently our laws are worded in such a way that a person losing a job need not take another position offered, if the salary is less than that of the previous job. It seems obvious that this regulation adds unnecessary numbers to the welfare rolls. Is it any wonder that people from other countries flock to this "land of milk and honey?"

The Discipline Question

Editor, The Freeman

I was thoroughly appalled by the editorial which appeared in the Fridav, April 3rd issue of your paper, entitled "Discipline Is Solution."

In essence, the column suggested that the way to "restore the more tranquil times of past years" is to enforce more discipline at home and in shcool. The writer seems to look back with nostalgia to the good old days of the "hickory stick."

First, may I remind you that we are living in the year 1970 and not in the more tranquil years of the past.

Secondly, what are today's rebellious youth rebelling against if not the disciplinarian, suppressive, quite too often illogical parents they are a product of? If, then, this is the reason for their rebellion, reverting to a more severe authoritarian attitude can result only in more radical rebellion.

Of course all children need discipline at times, but one must realize that respect is earned — not taught. Respect is earned by giving children love, understanding, wise careful guidance, and counseling. It cannot be forced upon a child with a hickory stick.

A parent physically forcing his values on his children can only breed in his children a hostility and lack of respect for the parent, and later in life, a distrust and disrespect for all authority.

Laos Involvement

Editor, The Freeman:

In his letter of April 1st, Mr. Harold Van Allen objected to a sentence from my letter of March 16th. Not only is the quote taken out of context, but no reasons were given for his objection!

I don't believe that our involvement in a war in Laos is helping to "build America." If Mr. Van Allen does, I just wonder what he means by this phrase. If he does not, then he is in agreement with me and the subject is closed.

Narcotics Problem

Editor The Freeman

If the United States Government pursued the top drug importers with the same zeal they showed in getting a man to the moon, the narcotics problem would have been solved long ago.

Now one reads of a Federal Judges name being mentioned prominently on the recently released Mafia tapes. How high in Government does such corruption go? Is this why the authorities make the token effort of adding extra men? There contribution will be to nab a few teenagers for pot smoking and pick up a few minor pushers who will be replaced by other pushers before there cell doors close. Such ineffectuality would be laughable if it weren't so tragic for the thousands of children who will become hooked on heroin before they are old enough to understand what drugs are all about.

Teamster Officials Meet Today On Spreading Truckers Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top officials of the Teamsters Union scheduled a meeting today in Washington to discuss spreading strikes by truck drivers dissatisfied with terms of a tentative national contract.

Frank E. Fitzsimmons, acting president of the union, summoned the leaders one week earlier than a planned general executive board meeting.

The walkouts gained momentum in the Midwest Tuesday and began spreading into the East. There were reports of violence against some Midwestern truckers who stayed on the job.

Trucking industry leaders in Chicago said they are prepared to retaliate against piecemeal strikes there with a general lockout of all drivers in the area.

The striking truckers outside Chicago are dissatisfied with a tentative $1.10-an-hour wage increase agreed upon at national talks in Washington last week.

In the Chicago area, where the Teamsters and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union negotiate separately from the national unions, talks have been deadlocked for more than a week. The two unions have been conducting strikes against selected firms.

Wildcat walkouts reached the East Tuesday when some 70 Teamsters struck a Carlstadt, N.J., firm.

In West Virginia, drivers walked off their jobs in Charleston and Clarksburg. There were reports of strikers throwing rocks at trucks crossing their picket lines in Charleston.

In the Midwest, at least 1,000 Minneapolis drivers joined a strike of 3,000 teamsters in St. Paul.

Another strike began in Oklahoma City.

The walkouts started in Los Angeles, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Akron, Ohio, and other cities over the weekend.

Teamsters in the San Francisco Bay area, Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, and St. Paul, Minn., followed suit Monday.

Federal mediators said Tuesday they believe the key to contract approval lies in Chicago. Nationwide strikes broke out in 1967 when the Chicago drivers won a higher wage hike than the national contract agreement.

At present the city's 50,000 drivers are demanding a wage increase of $1.70 an hour over three years, which is 60 cents higher than the tentative national contract provides.

Union leaders throughout the country reported no success in talking the strikers into returning to work.

Because of the strikes, layoffs were reported in factories in various cities. Several thousand auto assembly workers were sent home in the St. Louis area because of parts shortages. Factories and interstate trucking firms in Oklahoma City and Arkansas also reported layoffs.

The strikes were complicated by parallel walkouts involving steel haulers, who own their own rigs.

The steel haulers have been demanding the right to negotiate independently from the Teamsters.

Seeking Man Who Held Up Gas Station

KINGSTON — A gun-wielding man in his early twenties stuck up, and tied up, a gas station attendant in Kingston early this morning and made off with an undisclosed amount of cash.

According to state police, the armed robbery took place between 4 and 4:15 a. m. when a black-haired man, six-foot tall and weighing about 150 pounds, entered the Hess Service Station on Albany Avenue Extension, brandishing a small gun.

He reportedly tied up the attendant William Leskody, 20, of Kingston using wire and a chair in a back room.

Leskody freed himself with the use of a knife and called the state police. The robbery is being investigated by C. T. Searles and J. F. Salters.

The suspect is described as being of thin build and wearing a dark brown jacket and pants.

Ellenville Man Faces Charges As Disorderly

ELLENVILLE — A 30-year-old man was arrested Tuesday night by police on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest following investigation of a disturbance at 5½ Church Street in this village.

Patrolmen Norman Green and Ronald Strouse made the arrest and arraigned Filipe Ayola, who has no permanent address before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias. The defendant, represented by Attorney Albert I. Lonstein, pleaded innocent to both charges.

Bail was fixed at $100 on the misconduct charge and $500 on the other count. In lieu of bail Ayola was committed to the county jail pending a hearing.

According to police, Ayola allegedly created a disturbance at the Church Street residence, and when police placed him in custody the defendant allegedly took "a couple of punches" at Officer Strouse.

Cornell Vandalism— $4,000 Theft, Damage

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Cornell University officials said today that Monday's vandalism by black students at the campus store resulted in the theft of "less than $3,000" worth of merchandise and $1,000 in damages.

At a rally of 300 predominantly white students Tuesday night, members of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and other campus groups called on the administration to grant amnesty to those involved in the store incident. In a list of demands in support of the blacks, the incident was referred to as a "political action."

The store, which had opened for business in a new campus building only that morning, was looted of books, records and clothing by about 100 black students who had marched there from the office of Cornell President Dale R. Corson. One black student leader said he was dissatisfied with Corson's reaction to a list of demands the group had presented.

A large front window at the store was broken, a display was overturned and merchandise thrown about.

The black demands were presented on the first day of classes after a fire April 1, during spring vacation, destroyed the three-story Africana Studies and Research Center. The demands included increased security forces to guard predominantly black dormitories and facilities.

No determination as to the cause of the fire has been determined. Corson said the possibility of arson would be investigated and has pledged to help re-finance lost supplies and set up new black studies headquarters.

A caller to the main desk of the student union Tuesday claimed there was a bomb planted in one of three dorms, and named two predominantly black residences among them—North Campus 8, temporary headquarters for the burnt center, and North Campus 6, which houses disadvantaged students on scholarship. Authorities said a search turned up no bombs and expressed doubt that anybody could get a bomb by the entrances to the dorms which are being tightly guarded by police and unarmed students.

James Turner, director of black studies, says he was in the Africana building with several staff members on the night of March 31. But, Turner said they left the building about 8 p.m., five hours before the fire broke out.

Explosion Toll In Osaka: 74 Killed, 200 Hurt

OSAKA, Japan (UPI)—A series of gas explosions ripped through a crowded residential and shopping district causing heavy loss of life today in this host city to the 1970 world's fair.

Authorities said 74 persons were killed and 200 injured and that the toll might go higher.

Many of the victims were in a crowd which had gathered to watch a repair crew trying to fix a gas leak in a 20-inch pipe at a subway construction site. The toll was high because the explosion came during the evening rush hour.

The fire department said at least 225 fire engines and crews battled the fires and helped the injured.

There were no reports of deaths or injuries among the thousands of foreigners packing the city for the 1970 world exposition being held in the Senri Hills, about 11 miles north of the disaster site.

Husband Faces Harassment on Wife's Charges

KINGSTON — Robert Coughlin, 29, of 22 Stuyvesant Street, was arrested early today by police on complaint of his wife, Beatrice, who accused him of breaking windows in the apartment at that address, throwing her on a bed and using profanity.

Coughlin was booked on a charge of harassment and was scheduled to appear in City Court.

Conservatives Plan Dinner

KINGSTON — Kingston Area Conservative Club Party will meet Tuesday, April 14 at 8 p.m. in the Ulster County Court House.

The club will also hold a dinner dance Saturday, April 25 at 7:30 p.m. at Oehlers Mt. Lodge. Returns from the sale of tickets will be received at the meeting.

DIED

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father, William Van Dyke, who passed away 10 years ago, April 8, 1960.
Today recalls sad memories
Of a dear father gone to rest,
And the ones who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.

Marbletown GOP Lists Installation

HAROLD N. BUTLER

MARBLETOWN

Harold N. Butler, State commissioner of correction, will be the guest speaker at the fifth annual Marbletown Republican Club installation dinner, scheduled Saturday 7 p.m. at the Sportsman Park Restaurant, Route 32 in Rosendale.

Commissioner Butler began his state career as an attendant at Middletown State Hospital, Department of Mental Hygiene, in November, 1932. He attended the first Central Guard School at Wallkill Prison in November of 1936 and was appointed a guard at the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents, now the Catskill Reformatory, in Napanoch on Jan. 12, 1937. Butler served in the United States Army, Adjutant General Corps, from November 1943 to January 1946.

Through promotional examinations he was appointed sergeant at Wallkill Prison in 1951; lieutenant at N.Y.S. Vocational Institution in 1958; assistant deputy superintendent at N.Y.S. Vocational Institution in 1962; and deputy warden at Green Haven Prison in 1965. On Oct. 4, 1965 he was appointed deputy commissioner of correction.

Butler has taught in-service training courses at Napanoch, Wallkill and at serveral sessions of the Moran Memorial Institute. He served as president of the Ellenville Board of Education during the years 1951 and 1952. He was chairman of the Training Committee at Wallkill Prison from 1952 to 1957. Butler was also president of the Town of Shawangunk Republican Club during 1963 and 1964.

Fred Meyer is chairman of this annual dinner. Anyone wishing to secure dinner reservations may contact him or Marbletown Town Justice Robert S. Diamond.

Use of Ellis Island Proposed by Rollison

POUGHKEEPSIE

Ellis Island would become a "Commemorative Museum of Nations" with groups of various national origins assisting in establishing their nation's exhibits, under a resolution being proposed by Sen. Jay P. Rolison.

Pointing to the fact that Ellis Island, in New York Harbor, saw hundreds of thousands of persons of many national origins pass through its gates and make their contribution to American life, Sen. Rolison said, "Perhaps such an exhibit might serve as an object lesson to national leaders throughout the world."

"All nations, ethnic groups and races should be represented. This includes American Indians and Blacks, as well as Irish, Poles, Germans, Russians, Italians, Swedes, Chinese, Japanese and all other nations, existing or not, which have contributed to the life, progress and spiritual development of the United States.

"I would hope that descendants of each such group would be invited to and would play a part in developing exhibits telling of their heritage. Individual contributions by persons of differing national origin could also be recognized.

"If passed by the Legislature, this resolution would memorialize the Congress of the United States to establish such a Commemorative Museum of the Nations."

"As we approach our 200th year of Independence, I believe this would be a fitting tribute to the national origin of so great a percentage of our population. It would serve to emphasize and reaffirm that peoples of all nations can join together to work for the common good."

Nursing Homes Group Elects New Officers

Edward T. Sylcox of Newburgh, was elected president of the Mid-Hudson Nursing Home Association at the annual meeting held recently at Pine Tree Inn, Middlehope.

Sylcox succeeds Norton E. Blue of New Paltz, as head of the organization which is part of Division 4 of the State Nursing Home Association.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Gertrude Yabba, Pawling, vice president; Miss Frances Anderson, Cold Spring, secretary; and James Scudari, Kingston, treasurer. Members elected to the board of directors were Norton E. Blue, New Paltz, Audrey Martin, Middletown, and Marie Brazier-Creagh, Beacon.

James P. Regan of Woodhaven, fire safety coordinator, discussed state regulations covering nursing homes, while Blue advised the membership of his recent stand on refusal to admit additional Medicare patients at the New Paltz Nursing Home until government administrators develop more meaningful modifications of their present policies covering the Medicare program.

Sir Rupert Brazier-Creagh, co-owner of the Tra-Nel Nursing Home, Beacon, in discussions concerning governmental encroachments on private enterprise, said that this condition was destroying an important segment of the American way of life. Unless the "political juggernaut" is stopped now, every business, including nursing homes, will become a government-controlled agency. This bureaucracy, he said, would, as has often been seen in other cases, curtail efficiency and personal attention which is now one of the hallmarks of the nursing home profession. He urged the association members to remain alert to any legislation which could chip away the foundation of private enterprise.

Red Hook VFW Plans Benefit For Rescue Unit

RED HOOK

Recognizing the fact that the Red Hook Fire Department Rescue Squad is most deserving of a new ambulance, Red Hook VFW Post 7765 will hold a benefit buffet-dance on Saturday, May 9, at Memory Hall.

It is expected that, in view of the invaluable service rendered by these dedicated volunteers, every family in the community will wish to do its part in patronizing the affair a VFW spokesman said. Those unable to attend but wishing to contribute are requested to make checks payable to the Red Hook Rescue Squad, care of the VFW Post, 30 Elizabeth Street, Red Hook.

Dance music from 9 to 1 will be furnished by The Villagers. Reservations may be had through Commander Anthony Jornov Jr., committee chairman Henry B. Wurdemann or any Post member, prior to May 2.

Senior Member Unit of CAP Is Organized

KINGSTON

A group of active citizens ready to serve their community and country have recently formed the Wiltwick Senior Member Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

The group presently has 10 pilots with their aircraft standing by for pilot training and missions. There is a need for photographers, both aerial and general, and also volunteers who will assist the already formed members of the squadron. There is also a need for radio communicators, news-media people, and supply officers, as well as finance officers.

Anyone interested in joining should call the Information Officer, Sgt. Barbara Schneider any evening after 6 p.m. or any time on weekends.

Local Library Week Observances Planned

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock Library is planning two observances during National Book Week, April 12 to 18.

During that week there will be no overdue charges for books returned — no questions, no sighs—just bring back those overdue books.

Secondly, there will be a special display of the notable recent additions to the library's collection of art books. Made possible through the generous bequest of the late Eugene Speicher, these works cover paintings and painters, drawings, sculpture, architecture. They constitute a valuable extension of the library's already outstanding collection in this field. A library trustee or member of the Book Committee, as well as the library staff, will be on hand to answer questions during library hours. The public is cordially invited.

Among new acquisitions at the library: The Defector by Charles Collingwood; The Marriage of a Young Stockbroker by Charles Webb (of The Graduate fame); The Chosen Place, The Timeless People by Paule Marshall; The City by Mayor John V. Lindsay; A Great Fall by Mildred Savage; in the Country of the Young by John W. Aldridge.

Family Supper Slated By Local Fire Auxiliary

WOODSTOCK

Another in the series of family suppers sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3 of Lake Hill was set set for Saturday, May 2, at the firehouse. Families of active members of the Auxiliary and active firemen participate in these suppers.

Other business transacted at the March meeting included the decision to purchase a new refrigerator for the firehouse, a report of a "successful meeting" with other auxiliaries of the Woodstock Fire Department with an exchange of ideas for helping their respective fire companies, the setting of the date for the annual rummage and bake sale on Saturday, July 11 at the firehouse, and the appointment of two delegates to an exploratory meeting on the possibility of instituting a county-wide fire auxiliary — to be held at the Ulster Hose Company quarters on Albany Avenue Extension on April 8.

Refreshments for the meeting were supplied by Mrs. John Mergandahl and Mrs. Phillips Eighmey.

The next meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary will be held at the firehouse on Tuesday, April 28, at 8 p. m. Any women of the communities of Willow, Lake Hill, and Shady who are interested in helping Woodstock Fire Company No. 3, are invited to affiliate with the organization.

District Governor Visits Lions

SAUGERTIES District Governor John G. Reynolds, Lions International 20-0 was a guest of the Saugerties Lions Club last week at the dinner meeting, held at the Flamingo Restaurant.

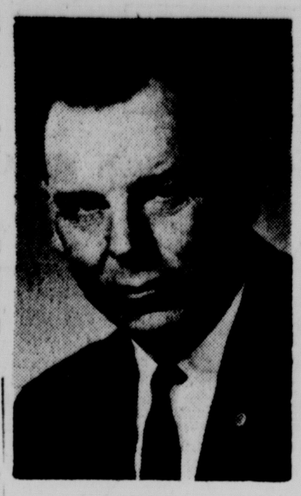

A stirring and inspirational address was delivered by Governor Reynolds to the local group. He pointed out that District 20-0, in the Hudson Valley comprises some 60 Lions Clubs and that very evening there was a possibility of an additional club being formed in the Town of Ulster. Over 2,800 men now serve their community in District 20-0. The Governor commended Secretary Robert Schirmer for his excellent reports and prompt handling of correspondence.

He stated that the Saugerties Club, formed 38 years ago, has been a source of inspiration for the entire district for its many programs such as the Blind Program, the Lions Club picnic, the Glaucoma Clinic and many other projects. Over 20 specific instances of Saugerties Lions Club's civic projects were cited by Governor Reynolds. The Governor concluded with the statement that Lions International was the largest service Club active in the free world and that its membership was double that of any comparable service organization. Saugerties Lions, at the well-attended meeting, gave a standing ovation to Governor Reynold's address.

Lion President, Wellington Hunter, presiding at the meeting, requested that the Governor formally install two new members, and Jack Bartells and Joe E. Hester were formally installed. Their sponsors, Frank Greco and Joseph Wipper were also called to present the new members to the group.

King Lion Hunter advised the club that the golf tournament program was well underway under the chairmanship of Kenneth Harder, assisted by Lion Dr. Irving Dreishpoon and Hugo Knauert. He stated that this was the responsibility of the entire club and that the committee would need help.

The date of the State Lion Club convention was announced as May 31 to be held at South Fallsburg with the Convention Committee composed of Lions Hunter, Knauert, Harder and William D. Brinnier.

Who'd you rather owe? The Internal Revenue or us?

First, don't worry.

If you don't have the money to cover your taxes, your relationship with the Internal Revenue will become a little complicated, but not disastrous. All they want is their money, and they may even make some arrangement for you to pay it.

This arrangement, of course, does involve interest, not to mention having to "talk things over with them" in the first place.

Which is why you might prefer to get the money from The State of New York National bank and keep your relations with the government on a normal basis.

The State of New York National Bank is set up to put a personal loan through with the least fuss and time. If you're reasonably solvent (and live or work in the mid-Hudson Valley area), your signature is probably good enough for us and you'll have the money for your taxes in a day or two.

If you're wondering why we advertise tax loans and the government doesn't, the answer is simple.

It's a banker's business to encourage responsible loans. The Internal Revenue's business is to get paid

And with April 15th getting closer, we thought you just might need a little encouragement.

You'll find a banker at
The State of New York National Bank.

Democrats Will Fight Postal Hike To Finance 6 Pct. Wage Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 6 per cent general pay raise for postal workers and nearly all other federal employes has been cleared for final Senate action, but Democrats say they'll fight any subsequent move to finance it through higher postal rates.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee tacked the measure to a minor House-passed postal bill Tuesday. But the panel made it clear a second 8 per cent pay hike for postal workers will be considered separately.

Government and union negotiators worked out the two-stage pay plan to settle a simmering postal pay dispute, which resulted in the nation's first mail strike.

The President has asked for an increase in the first-class postage stamp from six to 10 cents to help pay the estimated $36 billion costs of the wage boosts. He has tied the 8 per cent raise for postal workers to his proposal for a postal corporation.

Addressing itself to the 10-cent stamp proposal, the committee unanimously approved a resolution saying "there should be no increase until such time as mailers using other than first-class privileges pay their fair share of postal costs."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen if the 6 per cent boost had not gone through committee Tuesday, the nation would be faced with another postal strike.

He said the next task is to work out a postal reorganization plan, adding, "Frankly, if it is not worked out the system will fall flat on its face."

In the House, meantime, it appeared Nixon will get a hearing on his proposal for a speedup in collection of estate taxes to help finance the pay increases. The speedup is another part of the administration's package to pay for the increases.

But Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said his panel can't possibly get to the proposal until late summer.

Mills also said the pay package offered by the administration torpedoes any hopes for a budget surplus.

The speedup is designed to pick up $1.5 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

HIGHEST AWARD — President Nixon presented the nation's highest award for bravery—the Medal of Honor—to the families of 21 American servicemen killed in Vietnam. A conscientious objector—Cpl. Thomas W. Bennett, of Morgantown, W. Va., was among those to be honored posthumously in private ceremonies in the President's office. Bennett—who was allowed to serve as a medic because of his objection to war on moral grounds—was killed while trying to rescue a wounded soldier last year. He would have been 23 years old yesterday. The Pill: A Warning For Users

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government has disclosed a 100-word warning statement it will require in every package of oral contraceptives.

A spokesman said the warning is shorter than the originally proposed 800-word statement to ensure that more women will take time to read it. The new statement says:

"The oral contraceptives are powerful, effective drugs. Do not take these drugs without your doctor's continued supervision. As with all effective drugs they may cause side effects in some cases and should not be taken at all by some. Rare instances of abnormal blood clotting are the most important known complications of the oral contraceptives. These points were discussed with you when you chose this method of contraception.

"While you are taking this drug, you should have periodic examinations at intervals set by your doctor. Tell your doctor if you notice any of the following: 1. Severe headache; 2. blurred vision; 3. pain in the legs; 4. pain in the chest or unexplained cough, irregular or missed periods."

Air Controllers' Sick-Out Ruled a Strike by Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that whatever Air Traffic Controllers have been doing for the past two weeks—sick-in, slowdown, sick-out—is, in fact, a strike.

Judge George L. Hart Jr. found the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—guilty of contempt Tuesday, but put off announcing any penalties until Saturday.

Meanwhile, 90-minute delays remained at several major airports and flight volume has been cut 40 per cent along some routes. Controllers continued to return to their control towers and air traffic radar scopes, but not in sufficient numbers to totally cure air travel woes.

Hart showed sympathy for the men who claimed to be ill, saying they had acted "under extreme provocation," adding "you just can't strike against the government for any reason." For the moment, at least, Hart turned aside a government request to fine the union.

PATCO and its executive director, F. Lee Bailey, are protesting what they say is government inattention to having more controllers on the job working with improved equipment.

A PATCO spokesman had no comment on the decision.

Hart's decision does open the way, however, for the government to seek legal penalties against controllers who still refuse to return to work.

Technically, the judge's decision found PATCO in civil contempt of an earlier restraining order handed down by the court. He issued a preliminary injunction against continuation of the strike.

Hart pleaded from the bench for "every controller who is able to go back to work as soon as possible." Bailey asked his men to do the same thing last week.

A similar government try for an injunction in a Brooklyn N.Y., federal court was delayed.

LEGISLATIVE INTERN — Tim Murphy of Saugerties (R) in his second session of serving as Legislative Intern for Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, is now actively assisting Bell on the Assembly floor with presentation of debate on key bills affecting Ulster County. Murphy recently helped the assemblyman prepare debate on the bill to control and regulate future Woodstock-type music and art festivals.

Desertion Charge

Eddie L. Adams, 19, of 62 Gill Street, was picked up by police Tuesday and charged with being a deserter from the U. S. Marine Corps. He was detained for military authorities.

Claim Israel Jets Killed 30 Children

By United Press International

Israeli Phantom jets struck into Egypt today, and Cairo officials said the planes killed 30 schoolchildren and an adult in a school at Al Sharkiyyah in the central sector of the Suez Canal.

An Egyptian Interior Ministry spokesman said the raid which hit the Bahr Al-Bakar School also wounded 46 other civilians, 36 of them children. The school was described as a preliminary school where children of both sexes up to the age of 15 attend classes.

The spokesman said four military men were "hit" when the American-made Phantoms raided Egyptian military positions. An Israeli announcement said only that Israeli planes penetrated 20 miles into Egypt on one raid and struck targets along the canal for the second successive day.

The last Israeli air strike which Egypt said hit civilian areas was on March 31. And Cairo said Israeli planes killed 83 civilians last Feb. 13 in a raid on a steel factory at Abu Zaabal outside Cairo.

Fighting flared today on the Israeli-Jordanian frontier and a spokesman in Amman said Jordanian troops under personal command of King Hussein drove Israeli armored units out of the Ghorm Al-Safi area just south of the Dead Sea.

The Jordanian spokesman said both sides exchanged artillery fire as the Jordanians pressed their objectives.

Israeli warplanes penetrated 20 miles inside Egypt to hit what was described only as military targets.

West Camp Church Anniversary Plans, Council Election Listed

WEST CAMP

New officers were elected to the church council of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church at West Camp this week and additional plans for the historic church's 260th anniversary observance this year were outlined.

The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of the church was reelected president of the council. Nelson G. Burhans of West Camp was elected vice president to succeed Daniel Wynne, who completed his term on the council Dec. 31.

Reelected secretary was Albert J. Cawein of Blue Mountain and treasurer, Charles Stewart of Cementon.

Mrs. Herman C. Knaust, a member of the Anniversary Committee listed several major events for the observance:

May 2, VFW Loyalty Day service will be held in St. Paul's this year; May 3, choir reunion Sunday; May 10, Mother's Day service and in the afternoon a concert by Singout Saugerties, a youth choral group emulating the national Up With People choral group; May 14, mother and daughter banquet; June 7, wedding bells service to which all couples married in the church are invited; June 14, 15th anniversary service for the Rev. Mr. Messersmith; June 18, strawberry festival; June 21 father and son Communion breakfast; June 28, family congregational picnic.

Many other events will be scheduled throughout the summer.

On Sept. 20 Old Timers Sunday will be observed; Sept. 27, Galilean service. The 260th anniversary service will be held Oct. 11 and the anniversary banquet on Oct. 17. On Oct. 25, Reformation Sunday, an organ recital will be held.

The next anniversary committee meeting will be held Monday, April 20 at 8 p.m. in the parish hall.

Student Helpers Program

GLASCO

Glasco School has instituted a program called Student Helpers.

A student helper is a child chosen by his teacher to help younger students. This help covers the full range of all academic subjects. This program is felt to be beneficial to the helper as well as to the student being helped. The program fosters independence, self-reliance, and a knowledge of how to work well with others. The program is not restricted to the upper grades. In fact, student helpers are presently being chosen from grades two to six.

Glasco School personnel consider this interaction between grades as a positive aid for its functioning program of departmentalization.

Sixth Graders Produce Film

A completely new area of study on the elementary school level is currently underway at Glasco School. Sixth grade students, under the direction of Mrs. Terrie Rosenblum, art teacher, are making their own film.

The outstanding feature of this unique project is that no camera is used at all. Similar to professional animators, the youngsters are creating their own images on 16 MM film. Results of this highly creative and unusual area of work will be shown and explained at a PTA meeting soon to be held at Glasco School.

Programs of individually made 35 MM slides have already been shown to the primary grade classes at the school. The handmade slides were accompanied by scripts written by the students.

Central Hudson Details Need For Rate Hike

A booklet is currently being distributed by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation detailing the costs of gas and electric service.

For the first time in 11 years, the utility is applying to the Public Service Commission of the State of New York for an increase in rates for gas and electric service. The report to customers explains the need for a rate increase.

Central Hudson serves 161 communities and 172,000 customers in the Mid-Hudson area.

Essay Winner Named

SAUGERTIES

The winner was announced this week for Saugerties Chapter DAR essay contest in the sixth and seventh grades of Saugerties schools. The essay contest was in commemoration of Flag Day. The essay is entitled, "What the Flag of the United States Means to Me."

This first prize winner is Eric Eberhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eberhardt, Sterley Avenue, Saugerties. Eric is a seventh grade student at St. Mary of the Snow School.

He and his parents will be the honored guests at the Saugerties Chapter DAR Flag Day picnic to be held June 13 at the home of Mrs. William Young, Lighthouse Drive. Eric will be presented with an appropriate prize. His winning essay is now eligible for a New York State award. All students entering the contest are also presented with a DAR certificate of merit.

Governor Is Honorary Chairman For State Special Olympics

ALBANY — Mrs. Dorothy W. Bushring, State Director, has announced that Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller has accepted the position of honorary chairman of the New York State Special Olympics. Governor Rockefeller, who has been instrumental in improving programs for the retarded in New York State, will serve as chairman of the Olympic program which will culminate with the State Special Olympic meet, to be held in Rochester, June 13th through the 14th.

Under Governor Rockefeller's leadership, improvements in programs for the mentally retarded in New York State have come at both the state and local levels. One of the areas that New York State has made significant improvement in is the area of recreation for the retarded. The State Residential Schools have opened two summer camps which provided a week of fun for more than 3,200 retarded children last summer. Governor Rockefeller has said that because of the success of this program "plans were being made to open a third camp, in the western part of the State, by summer 1970."

Plans are also underway to develop inter-schools athletic competition among New York State schools for the mentally retarded in 1970. In the public schools in the state, the mentally retarded are often placed within regular physical education programs. Research has shown that when given the opportunity, many retarded can attain performance levels in basic physical activity that equal or surpass that of normal children. More significantly, studies have shown that there has been a direct correlation between the improvement of the retarded children in academic subject matter and their participation in well structured physical education programs. In many areas of New York State, the mentally retarded in public schools also receive adapted physical education instruction geared to improving strength and coordination. Swimming programs are available in many areas both for the educable and trainable retarded. Because of these programs and the many other services provided for the retarded in the state, the late President John F. Kennedy cited New York State as the model state for programs for mentally retarded. Governor Rockefeller has concluded that "It is our goal to provide a combination of State and Local services that will give each mentally retarded person in our State all the help he needs to make his life as normal as possible."

The New York State Special Olympics, sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, is another attempt at reaching this goal. Last August, more than one hundred mentally retarded children from New York State, ranging in ages from 9 to 18 years, participated in the Northeast Special Olympics in Boston. This year the Olympics have been expanded to include 43 states and Canada. One hundred and twenty-five children from New York State will eventually participate in the International Special Olympics to be held in Chicago in August. Over 10,000 mentally retarded children will participate in the 33 local meets to be held throughout the State in May.

Plan Paper Drive

Boy Scout Troop 26 of Port Ewen will hold a paper drive on Saturday, April 11 in the area covered by the Port Ewen Water District. In case of rain the drive will be held on Saturday, April 18. The drive will start at 8 a.m. and continue through noon.

The proceeds of the drive will go to the troop treasury to provide funds for the various troop outdoor activities.

Rochester Sets Special Town Board Meeting

ROCHESTER — A special town board meeting of the Town of Rochester will be held Thursday, at 8 p. m. in the Municipal Building in Pataukunk for discussion of the proposed Town Development Plan.

The public is invited.

At a recent regular town board meeting the bid for the annual fuel oil contract was awarded to William Anderson, Inc.

A public hearing for regulating the operation of the town dump will be held at the next regular meeting, May 7. It has been announced that Grannel Miller has been appointed special constable and dump attendant.

A testimonial dinner for recently retired Town Justice Abram D. Smith will be held at the Rochester Reformed Church, Thursday, April 16 at 7 p. m. Tickets for the dinner may be secured from Franklin Kelder, Philip Davis or Joseph Trafficanti Jr. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Student at Bard Wins Internship

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — Robert Carpenter, a senior at Bard, has been selected as one of 400 college students from institutions across the nation for a Washington Summer Interne Program.

The students, nominated by their colleges, must have completed at least 60 semester hours and have a grade point average of 3.5 or better.

As internes, they will be employed by various Federal agencies at salaries commensurate with their qualifications, and will be doing meaningful work related to the agencies' missions.

They will also participate in specially arranged seminar groups which will meet intermittently during the period of their employment. These seminars will look closely at major Federal programs relating to domestic or international affairs. In addition to the small group seminars, there will be plenary sessions on topics that should be of interest to all internes.

The Program will provide an opportunity to present some of the problems and issues facing Government to the Nation's finest young scholars, and will also give the participants a look at Government in operation.

Carpenter, who has majored at Bard in physics and math, has been selected as an interne by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Stone Ridge Library Sets June Fair Date

STONE RIDGE

Date for the annual Stone Ridge Library fair was set at a recent meeting of the library trustees.

The fair will be held Saturday, June 20. The book committee has started collecting books, including paperbacks, records, tapes or maps. Those wishing to donate items may leave them at the library or may contact Mrs. D. William Daron to arrange to have them picked up.

There will be no fines assessed for overdue books returned to the library during National Library Week April 12 to 18. Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck, librarian, suggests that patrons check home book shelves for overdue books which may be returned during fine-free period.

A letter of appreciation has been sent to Mrs. John Cross for the weekly story hour for preschoolers conducted at the library every Tuesday 10 to 11 a.m.

It was reported that the well house on library grounds has been repaired and painted.

'Weeding' Process Underway At The Kingston City Library

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON

"You have to keep up with the trends that are going on today," stated Mrs. Harry Matzen, director of the Kingston City Library.

In keeping with this statement the library staff is presently in the process of "weeding," that is, removing material that is no longer "applicable or pertinent." Material that has radically changed.

The last time this process was done was about ten years ago, according to Mrs. Matzen, who stated further that this should be done every three to five years. Books are pulled from the shelf and packed in boxes. Then the corresponding cards are removed from the "self list" and the card catalog.

In keeping with modern trends, different types of media other than books are found in the Kingston library. There are about 150 different periodicals, as well as a record collection and microfilm to be found in the library.

"The whole approach of the library is Changing," stated Mrs. Matzen. Young people seem to be involved more in the "multi-media" approach. According to Mrs. Matzen, public libraries are approaching this multi-media system. However, many public library buildings are old and in need of repair. The buildings are not able to be wired or functionable for this purpose. But there is a great opportunity to develop the public library and to serve "different people with different needs," Mrs. Matzen said.

Mrs. Matzen stated that the library can count on losing about five per cent of its collection each year through the disappearance, obsoleteness, or poor condition of the books. Things that should go in the library constantly are the screening out of unnecessary material, inventory (going through the card catalogs and locating missing books) and then revising the card catalog.

The library was founded in 1899 when a group of citizens met and after much discussion decided to form an association library rather than a public library. The library was issued its charter on June 26, 1899 by the New York State Board of Regents and the library was set up in a room in City Hall with donated books, several small gifts of money and a librarian who was hired at the rate of one dollar a day.

In 1904 the present library building was ready for occupancy after a $30,000 donation from Andrew Carnegie.

The Kingston Library, originally formed as an association library, has now become public and there is no embership fee. It serves an area of approximately 60,000 people. In this area there are smaller libraries, such as the Town of Ulster, Port Ewen and Hurley. There are about 8,000 to 9,000 active card holders But this does not account for the people who use reference materials and other services that the library offers.

Running a library is an "extremely interesting job," stated Mrs. Matzen. The Kingston Library offers many services to the residents in the area and Mrs. Matzen further commented. "When you can help someone, then you feel its worthwhile."

FOR D & H MUSEUM — Paul M. Sturges (L) president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Historic Society and William Collins, canal museum chairman, admire marble sculpture of John A. Roebling. The bust is on loan to the Canal Society Museum through the courtesy of Edward A. Chapman, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute librarian, because of Roebling's link with the building of four canal bridges and the society's growing interest in his engineering feats. The museum opening date has been set May 15. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Gateway Growth Described

KINGSTON

The growth of the local Gateway Industries to an operation that paid out $80,000 in wages during 1969 was described recently to the Kingston Kiwanis Club by John Sullivan, director.

Dedicated to helping the handicapped and disabled people through the medium of vocational rehabilitation, Gateway Indusries is considered by the State of New York as a leader in this type of program, Sullivan said.

In the past four years, the speaker said, the local non-profit organization has grown to the point where it helps approximately 140 persons daily to become rehabilitated. There are currently 24 full time members on the staff, with six part-time members.

People needing help are termed "clients," and Sullivan said that about 42 percent were "emotional cases and 40 percent mentally retarded persons." Others were termed "physical cases."

Evaluation of incoming persons takes about seven week to determine their talents, then a 13-week personal adjustment training takes place. Programs are tailored to individual needs with a placement bureau available to help adjusted persons to obtain work. "The local placement record is higher than the State and National average," Sullivan said.

A "sheltered workshop and work activity center" are a part of the Gateway's program — "for those who cannot maintain themselves in a competitive situation," and it was in these categories that the sum of $80,000 was mentioned in wages paid to handicapped people.

Ellenville Blight...A Community Problem

By SHANE CROSBY

ELLENVILLE

The snows are hopefully gone from the scene for a time and officials and residents of Ellenvile and other proud communities in the county now are being given a full view of the infectous blight of trash and garbage.

"Our blessed snow is gone," commented village trustee DeWitt Clinton during a recent board meeting. "And our garbage is coming home to roost."

In backyards and alleyways, paper and tin containers lay in heaps, mixed with broken wine bottles and decaying garbage. Along with this goes the smell of decay and the danger of rats.

Sanitation crews tour the village during the day and night to clean up what can be cleaned, and officers including Village Manager Lawrence Eyres talk to land owners to have them clean up what is not on municipal property.

Eyres reported at the April meeting of the village trustees that cooperation was being received from many individuals and firms who were asked to clean up property that adds an unsightly touch to the scene.

Others claim that some residents are acting as "scofflaws" who disregard village calls to clean up. Little or no use of the village's ordinances are charged as a responsible factor in the accumulation of garbage in some sections of Ellenville. Newly elected trustee David Kramer, speaking during his first regular trustee session, told his fellow board members that the Housing Code is not being enforced and demanded "I want it followed through to the letter starting tonight."

He asked building and housing inspector Howard Weiss what was being done when landlords tell the inspector "go fly a kite" after making a tour of the property, and Weiss answered that "scofflaws" are "given summonses and pay fines."

Kramer, a vice chairman of the housing authority, then asked what effect the fines have on the landlords, and he was told that while the maximum fine for an unclosed garbage can is $5, the village Justice Ronald Elias said "I don't recall" when asked if any Housing Code violations had reached his court in the past two years.

Spring cleaning always poses problems in a village like Ellenville, with its many alleyways and small private parking lots, but plans are underway for the annual village-wide attack on trash planned for later this month or in early May.

Special

What cannot be easily controled is the "out-of-town" landlord—the non-resident owner who allows his property to decay while living in remote communities away from the problem.

One such case was recently described where a laundromat had been closed a month ago and left to become "a private trash dump," in the words of one resident.

Rats and the infestation of cleaner areas of the village pose a major threat to the community in the area of sanitation, with open trash cans and mounds of garbage serving as the dinner table" for rodents.

On the village law books is a requirement that all trash containers be well covered, but tours through the community show some cases of the law not being followed. A woman who said she has been living in Ellenville for the past 10 years told the board of trustees that when she moved here, the landlord of her building kept all the trash cans covered. "Now they are gone," she said. "Now, kids take 'em off and slide on the snow with them," she said.

Dogs and cats are a menace to trash cans, she said, and once getting past a loose lid, they spread the contents over the ground there to be left for days.

She said she called the village dog catcher after seeing animals sifting through trash cans near her home. "I got real mad and called him. And he got some dogs," she said.

A landowner in the village, Mrs. Mary Miller, told the board that "tenants should be penalized for this garbage." She said the landlord can only police the property so often and added that the tenant lives here. If tenants are placed as being, responsible for the control of the trash, she said, "you'll see how quicky it stops."

Kingston Plaza Awarded $65,000

KINGSTON

After an eight day trial, Kingston Plaza Inc. was awarded $65,000 in a suit brought against Penatron Systems Inc. for $98,000.

According to Francis X. Tucker, trial counsel for Kingston Plaza Inc., Penatron had been reportedly called in to seal the seepage in the floor of the basement of the Sears Automotive building. They injected a substance to seal the holes, which acted as a hydraulic lift and jacked up the floor and the lifts causing a break through on the first floor, it was alleged.

Plaintiff attorney for the suit was Jansen Fowler and the attorneys for Penatron were McCann and Sommers. Several local experts were called as witnesses.

Last month's jury was called back by Justice T. Paul Kane of Cobbleskill from the March term. The jurors returned with their verdict at 9:33 Friday night.

BOCES' Annual Meeting Set Tonight

NEW PALTZ — The Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services recently granted permanent appointments to Harriet Greenspan, Lynn Sarda, Rosemary Alsdorf, Janet Dorsey, Mary Lou McSpirit, Allen Rowe, John Fiore and Robert Braun. These teachers and administrators have served their three-year probationary periods.

At a recent meeting the board approved the proposed budget to be presented at the BOCES annual meeting to be held at New Paltz Ttonight. They also approved a resolution of recognition of the Ulster County BOCES Teachers' Organization and accepted the resignations of Stanley Shipman, Mary Polhemus, and Donald Knack from the board.

Michael Autorino was appointed as teacher of building trades. The board also appointed the following personnel: Margaret Ackert (driver), Florence Kite (driver), Dorota Urbanski (key punch operator), Judy Bragg (key punch trainee), Jeannette Troeger (typist) and Barbara VanDeMark (typist).

BOCES board members agreed to up-date a survey of "hard of hearing" children in Ulster County.

The Ulster BOCES, whose motto is "Bringing Our Children Essential Services," has the following schools as component members: Ellenville, Highland, Kingston, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley, Saugerties and Wallkill.

Marist Award

David M. Flynn, (L) president of Marist College Alumni Association, Poughkeepsie, is shown presenting the 1970 Marist College Alumni Award to Harry M. Thayer of Radio Station WGHQ, Kingston, for his "singular contributions" to the Alumni Association. At right is Thayer's stepson, Walter Maxwell, also a member of the board of directors of the Alumni Association.

Esopus Post Observing Child Welfare Month

PORT EWEN — Robert R. Graves, American Legion commander of the Town of Esopus Post 1298, Por Ewen, announced that this post has joined with the more than 16,000 posts and some 14,000 American Legion Auxiliary units in the 33rd annual observance of Child Welfare month during April.

Commander Graves and Child Welfare Chairman, Edgar M. Maurer, pointed out that the Legion conducts its child welfare program on a year-round basis, but traditionally has set aside April as a time to emphasize this program.

Post 1298 was recently recognized on national American Legion level, having been presented with a special citation for meritorius service from the Departmen of New York American Legion. This is the 10th year that Post 1298 has been the recipient of this award in the Third District, which represents approximately 100 American Legion posts.

Post 1298 participates in all phases of child welfare work, which includes direct financial aid, contributions, sponsorship of leagues for sports, school contests and awards, Boys State, parties, dances, parades, and picnics, including their annual picnic and outing for the youngsters at the Mother Cabrini School, West Park.

Special programs include drug abuse, confinement of children in jails, pre-school vision testing, venereal disease and special education services for the multiple handicapped child.

Commander Graves stated, "The amount of money spent by the organization tells only a part of the Legion's effort in this area. Countless hours have been devoted by members in various service activities and legislative efforts which have been instrumental in developing many of today's public programs for children and youth."

Budget Hearing Slated April 15

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Village Board, at Monday's meeting, set April 15 as the date for the annual budget hearing.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the village offices.

Clerk-treasurer Francis Rabbett noted that the assessment role is available for residents to see at the village offices.

In reorganization, the board named Robert Bowman assistant mayor, appointed the same five policemen, and Ann Coons as a policewoman.

Five men appointed to serve on the joint town-village recreation board were Greg Traudt, Robert Bowman, Russell Keefe, Benson Griffin, and Alvie Battenfeld.

Rabbett was appointed clerk-treasurer for a two-year term, all other appointments being for one year, and trustees James Melley and John Gilfeather resumed their posts. The First National Bank of Red Hook was named official depository and Register-Star official newspaper.

JOINS WAF — Dianne Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Fisher of 91 W. Pierpont Street, Kingston, takes the oath of office for the Women's Air Force (WAF) from Lt. (JG) Stewart Glenn of the Navy at the Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station in Albany. Airman Fisher departed for Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., where she will receive basic training along with approximately 200 other young women from all over the country. Upon completion of this initial training, she will either be assigned directly to an Air Force base or to a school where she will receive specialized training. The determination will be made on the basis of her desires, aptitudes and current Air Force needs. Miss Fisher was graduated from Kingston High School in 1967.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Speaker Named for Tri-Sisterhood Meeting

YOSSI WEISGRAS

Yossi Weisgras, an officer during the Six Day War in the Combat Engineering Corps, will speak on "The Situation in Israel" at Temple Emanuel in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and in conjunction with the Tri-Sisterhood meeting tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Also on the program will be a presentation of slides by Dr. and Mrs. Albert Tannin and Mrs. Bernard Pauker, soloist, who will provide a musical introduction.

Born in Israel, Mr. Weisgras had his nigher education in London and is now doing graduate work at New York University.

During the course of his stay in London, he was also a stock performer in one of London't folk-song clubs. The cheerful sound of his accordion combined with his unique style of singing, switching smoothly and fluently from Hebrew to Yiddish to English, made each performance an unforgettable event.

Mr. Weisgras' ability to both present a vivid picture of the problems Israel is facing and singing the songs of Israel make him a much sought after talent. His narrative descriptions of his experiences during the Six Day War have a tremendous emotion impact.

Way to Man's Heart Through His Stomach?

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Job recruiters for the restaurant and hotel industry act on the old cliche that says the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

In the never-ending competition for trained personnel, one major motel and restaurant chain sent a staff to the New York City Community College to cook and serve a meal for the 1968 senior class in the hotel technology department.

This year's seniors were invited to dinner during the 1969 Christmas holidays by Restaurant Associates, Inc., which owns and operates some of the city's most prestigious dining establishments.

The industry also uses speech-making to woo prospective employes. During one two-week period last year, students heard speeches by executives of the 21 Club restaurant, New York's Hotel Plaza and the Hilton Hotels Corp.

There never are enough trained people, says Felice Chiapperini, department chairman at the junior college in Brooklyn.

Chiapperini, 36, and a graduate of the department he now heads, grew up in his family's restaurant business in Manhattan's Greenwich Village.

"But in our student body today, only 25 to 30 per cent have a family background in restaurants," he said in an interview.

"A big percentage of our night students are in the industry and interested in upgrading themselves," he added.

Night classes also attract a lot of firemen and police who plan to retire in their early 40s and want to open their own restaurants or hotels in the resort areas of Florida and Hawaii.

Housewives enroll in night courses in cake decoration and cold buffet design.

"We've had a surge lately of housewives who want to become caterers," Chaiapperini said.

He added that the department aims for "a bread and butter degree program, one that teaches specific skills to meet the needs of the community."

The campus at 300 Jay Street is on the fringe of the Bedford-Stuyvesant area, where 400,000 blacks live. A college spokesman said the school, a community college of the City University of New York under the program of the State University of New York, has the largest black enrollment of any college in the city. It offers 23 career programs plus liberal arts.

"Most blacks go into our medical science program — nursing, medical laboratory training and child care, but some also study accounting, marketing and retailing," said the spokesman.

Chiapperini said his department hopes to enroll more blacks, and added that most corporations are looking for executive potential among Negroes.

While the college emphasizes community service, it also accepts qualified students from anywhere in the world. Chiapperini said his department's enrollment has a pretty good cross section of Orientals and Europeans, blacks and whites.

Everything from pot-washing to waiting table is included in the culinary curriculum. Students who opt for it spend 150 hours a semester preparing meals to be served in the dining room.

"We try to duplicate industry conditions there as closely as possible," said Chiapperini. "Usually we have a minimum of 50 guests a day, but we can serve up to 135."

The dining room is open only to college administrative personnel and their guests, and hotel technology students.

Actresses Make Merry With Music

Ali McGraw and Phyllis Diller have something in common. Both play the harpsichord. And believe it or not, Phyllis plays it better.

"You can't imagine the number of hours I've spent learning to play the harpsichord for my new movie, 'Love Story,' " says Ali, who starred in "Goodbye Columbus." Even though her own playing won't be heard in the movie — the sound of someone more proficient will be dubbed in — Ali believes her efforts will make the scene more realistic.

Phyllis Diller, madcap comedienne who reportedly got her start in a laundromat entertaining other housewives, has a houseful of instruments: a flute and a zither. According to Phyllis, "Everybody plays everything."

An actress with almost as much musical versatility as Phyllis Diller is Vicki Lawrence, who dances and plays Carol Burnett's look-alike sister on Carol's weekly television show. Vicki, who became interested in music while in high school, plays the piano, drums, guitar and trumpet.

The American Music Conference (AMC) reveals that many Hollywood actresses play musical instruments, either for movie roles or for personal enjoyment. Several learned to play in order to accompany themselves at voice lessons.

The guitar is popular among actresses. Among the guitarists are Brigitte Bardot, Betsy Drake and Diane Varsi.

Several actresses, replying to an AMC poll, said they'd like to learn to play the guitar.

Janet Leigh, who studied piano for four years would rather play the guitar "because you can take it with you wherever you go and have music all the time."

Julie Harris, who took piano lessons "on and off as a child," also would like to learn to play the guitar. "I love folk music and the guitar is perfect for this," she said.

Tammy Grimes studied the piano for five years and still plays "a little bit;" she also studied the recorder. But she, too, wants to learn the guitar because of its "universatility as far as type of music played, convenience of size, ease of accompaniment."

Piano players are legion in Hollywood. Actresses who relax at the keyboard include Anne Baxter, Ann Southern Janet Blair, Diana Lynn and Kitty Carlisle. Grace Kelly, now the princess of Monaco, also plays the piano.

Other instruments find their way into actresses' hands. Nina Foch and Marlene Dietrich both play the violin; Miss Dietrich also plays the musical saw.

The cello has its supporters: both Mamie Van Doren and Kathryn Hays play it.

Debbie Reynolds relaxes with the French horn and Greer Garson plays the harmonica.

Music, it appears is equally at home soothing savage beasts and movie actresses.

Tiny Tips

Keep a coconut cake fresh by covering it with wax paper. Then wrap it in a damp tea towel and store in the refrigerator.

* * *

As you knit, leave long ends of yarn on each piece to use in sewing the pieces together.

* * *

To prevent safety pin holes in baby's undershirts, place the shirt between the two separate diaper folds before pinning.

THE ROMEROS, pictured here (L-R) Pepe, Angel, Celin and father Celedonio, do a little informal rehearsing on the grounds of their California home. At center is their pet, Melchior, who accompanies them on tour. The Romeros will be in Kingston next year, one of three concerts that have been announced by Community Concert Association.

'4 Romeros on 4 Guitars...Glorious'

The above is a quote from The New York Times. Time Magazine adds, "The Romeros are indisputably the best guitar ensemble around....extraordinary!"

Prompted by many enthusiastic requests for further information concerning the Community Concert series for 1970-71, this is the second in a group of three articles giving more details of each of the attractions, in this case, The Romeros, Spain's First Family of the Guitar.

Celedonio Romero, the father, was born into a prominent Malaga family in 1918. His father was a noted architect and engineer and was one of the three designers of the harbor of Gibraltar. Celedonio received his first guitar at the age of five and so marked was his talent that his family allowed him to choose music as a profession. He graduated from the Madrid Conservatory and made his debut in Madrid at the age of 20 where he was called "a poet with the power of opening up the heavens." His reputation as a distinguished classical guitarist grew but because he would make no commitment to the Falangist Party, he was denied the right to concertize outside of Spain. In 1957, however, after constant pressure, he and his family were granted a passport to visit Portugal. With the help of American friends there, the Romero family emigrated to California and now live in Los Angeles.

Celin Romero was born during the Spanish Civil War at the height of an air raid. The guitar was his constant companion, and he made his first professional appearance at the age of five on a radio broadcast. His style of playing is romantic and he prefers to concentrate on compositions of the 19th century. He strives for subtlety and suggestion rather than technical brilliance. The most flexible and adaptable of the Romeros, he served a six-month tour of duty with the U.S. Army and celebrated his graduation from Boot Camp by playing a concert . . . with his family . . . for fellow G.I.'s. Celin was married two years ago and is the father of a baby girl.

Pepe Romero was born in Malaga also, and because the house was located at the edge of the city and overlooked a gypsy encampment, he early came to know and love Flamenco guitar music. At the age of six it was acknowledged that he played Flamenco better than any gypsy guitarist in Malaga. His classic training from his father gives his Flamenco a particulary clear and precise sound. Pepe is the studious one in the family and listens to at least one complete recorded opera per day. He has said that he would like to play a concert every night of his life, with or without payment.

Angel Romero, the youngest, has always belied his first name, being of a mischievous and energetic disposition. He practices more hours than any other member of the family, and his heavier hands produce the most powerful tones in the quartet. Of the family he is the only one to have made his debut in the United States. He has recently made his debut as a singer of Flamenco on a Mercury record soon to be released.

Since the Romeros began concertizing in the United States in 1961, a new and demanding audience had been created for this glorious art. They have played more than 600 North American concerts, released immensely popular recordings, made numerous appearances on nation-wide television, and scored enormous success in orchestral performances. A New York Concert by the Romeros has become an eagerly anticipated yearly event. Appearances on the the Today Show, the Tonight show, and the Ed Sullivan show have contributed much to their spectacular success. Most recently they have appeared at the Hollywood Bowl with the Cleveland Orchestra and the Honolulu Symphony.

A critic on the San Antonio paper said, after their last appearance there, "The Romeros rode away like cowboys into the sunset . with the audience in their pockets!"

Renewal subscriptions for the Community Concert series are coming in very well, according to Mrs. Harry Seitz, membership secretary. Headquarters will be set up at the Governor Clinton Hotel from May 4th through May 9th and everyone is invited to subscribe to the series at that time. Co-chairmen of the membership committee are Mrs. William E. Rylance and Mrs. Vincent P. Berardi.

Paula Barca Honored at Bridal Shower

Miss Paula Barca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barca of 386 Main Street, Saugerties, was the guest of honor at a shower Saturday evening, April 4. The gala was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Route 9W, Saugerties. Hostesses were Miss Bonnie McCaig and Mrss. Joseph Veltrie.

A buffet was enjoyed which included a four tiered "wedding cake" made of potato salad and adorned with artifical lilies-of-the-valley.

Guests attended from Saugerties, Kingston, Lake Katrine, Jackson Heights, and Brooklyn. Among those present were the Mmes. Joseph Mannhaupt Sr., Dorothy D'Annunzio, Paul Mula Sr., Paul Barca, James Rapoli, John McMickle, John Bartells, David Wachtel, John Veltrie, Robert McCaig, William Kopf, Al North, Peter Neiffer, Frank Florio, Paul Fox, Zena Yerry, Joseph Ingellis; the Misses Janice Veltrie, Bonnie Mannhaupt, RoseAnne Rapoli, Alicia Angelo, Lillian Campell, Linda Yerry.

Gifts were received also from relatives and friends who were unable to attend.

Miss Barca will become the bride of Joseph J. Mannhaupt of Saugerties, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mannhaupt, on Saturday, April 25 at St. Mary of the Snow Church in Saugerties.

Massed Chorus Program Planned

On May 2nd at 8:15 p.m. the Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Association will present its annual massed concert at the Catskill High School Auditorium in Catskill. This year's concert will be sponsored by the popular Catskill Glee Club — now in its 43rd year. Other member clubs who will participate include the Amphion Glee Club of Newburgh, The Euterpe Club of Poughkeepsie, Cordial Green's Mens Glee Club, and the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston.

Charles Talleur, general chairman, anticipates a chorus of 125 male voices. Guest conductors will be Percy W. Gazlay II, Donald Brown, and Donald Fellows.

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston has announced its solo group as follows: "With a Voice of Singing," "Precious Lord Take My Hand," "On a Clear Day," and "He Could Only Sing a C." Selections by other solo groups will be made known later.

Tickets are available from any member of the Catskill Glee Club or at the door.

Miss Sims in Ballet

Miss Virginia Sims, a student at Judson College, Marion, Alabama, will have a part in the upcoming ballet version of "Alice in Wonderland" at Judson College. The student-adapted version of the childhood classic will be a feature of J Day, the annual spring homecoming at Judson.

Miss Sims is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Sims of 72 Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston.

Miller-Boyles Nuptials Announced

Miss Gwen Celia Miller, Kingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Miller Sr. of Raleigh, N. C., became the bride of Roger Boyles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Boyles of Brooklyn, Saturday, April 4 at St. James United Methodist Church of Kingston.

The Rev. Harry D. Robinson Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony. R. H. Palmatier, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of pure white Lutesong crepe with stand-up rolled collar and wide three-quarter length sleeves with rolled cuffs. The gown featured a cathedral length train. Her full length silk bridal illusion veil was held by a beaded petal headpiece and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and yellow roses.

Mrs. Richard Artus of White Lake was matron of honor and Miss Jill S. Miller, sister of the bride, Raleigh, N.C., was maid of honor. They wore yellow long sleeved cotton gowns and carried cascades of white and yellow daisies.

Miss Marion Williamson and Miss Julie Holumzer served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were fashioned identically to those of the honor attendants' and they carried nosegays of white and yellow daisies.

Donald Boyles of Middletown was best man for his brother. Ushers were Gregory E. Miller, brother of the bride, Raleigh, N.C.; Richard Artus, White Lake; and Gerard Ponchak, Highland Falls.

A reception for 100 guests was held at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyles left on a wedding trip through the southern states.

The bride, a graduate of Onteora Central High School in Boiceville and Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, is a staff nurse at Kingston Hospital.

Her husband attended Staten Island Community College and City College of New York. He served in the U.S. Navy and is employed by J.C. Penney Inc., New York.

50th Anniversary

Doing the Right Thing

ETIQUETTE RULES

Dear Mrs. Post: Conceding that change is acceptable in our new technological era, how does one cope with the old order of "Rules of Etiquette Usage" in accordance with the present practice of equal rights, automation and space age? How and where may one find the answers to the alarming social premissiveness? — Ruth Fisk

Dear Mrs. Fisk: One must accept the fact that our way of life has changed since many of the old etiquette rules were laid down, and it is continuing to change, faster than ever. Therefore, to be of any use at all, rules involving manners must change, too. This does not mean we must let down our standards; it simply means we replace old standards with new ones. It is the obligation of educated people, and of people who are in a position of authority or of influence to study the changes, to accept or reject new "manners" on the basis of influence, to study the changes, to accept or reject new "manners" on the basis of how they effect other people. It is ridiculous to say something is wrong simply because it is new, or not what you are accustomed to. It is valueless to say something is right simply because "everyone is doing it."

Dear Mrs. Post: When two ladies go "Dutch Treat" to luncheons and one (me) would enjoy a cocktail while the other does not indulge, is it permissible for me to do so? — Marge.

Dear Marge: Since you know that your friend has no moral objections to drinking cocktails, there is no reason that you should not have one when you go out with her. I'm sure she would be happy to order a tomato juice or soft drink to keep you company while you enjoy your drink.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman, and don't foreget to include your name and address.

BENEDICTINE PLAQUE — Mary Campbell (L) whose father was contractor for the original Benedictine Hospital, is shown with Sister Mary Charles, administrator, admiring a newly erected plaque in the hospital's recently decorated X-ray area. The plaque honors Sister Berenice OSB, former administrator who died last year at the age of 86. It was through the efforts of Miss Campbell, an honorary Benedictine Auxiliary member, that funds were collected for the plaque which is a gift of the Auxiliary and friends. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Art Classes for Adult Beginners

Young People's Studio of Woodstock is pleased to announce it can now meet the many requests for an evening class in drawing and painting for Adult Beginners. This special class will start Monday, April 13, from 7:30 - 10 p.m. The class will meet once a week and is limited to 10 students. In addition, Young People's Studio will continue with its present morning schedule of classes for adult beginners which meets twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

The Adult Painting Class for beginners offers a well-rounded program of drawing and basic painting with oils, acrylics and wastercolors. Art for teenagers is open to students between ages 13-17 and offers a once a week, Thursday or Friday afternoons, 3:40 - 6:00 p.m. The student can register for either afternoon class, or both afternoon classes. There are no prerequisites for either group and registration is limited to 10 students. Registration is by the month and continuous year-round. Because of the small size of the classes, early registration is advised.

The instructor for both classes, Lynn Silberstang, who now maintains her own studio in Woodstock and is preparing for an exhibition of her work, brings to the Young People's Studio program a thorough and broadly-based art background. At the University of Illinois, Mrs. Silberstang was honored as a Lydia E. Bates Scholar in Fine Arts. A graduate of Columbia University, she was the holder of a full-tuition graduation (Cum Laude). Along with her background in painting and drawing, she has worked in the fields of design, art anatomy, sculpture and art history. She has also worked professionally with stained glass windows on a number of projects in New York City, completing the windows from start to installation. Lynn Silberstang's paintings cover a wide spectrum of subjects, including landscape, figure, still-life and portrait.

In addition to the above classes, the school has classes for children, ages 4-12. These are given by Mrs. Jeanne Dorfman. The Studio is under the direction and guidance of Bruce Dorfman, known artist and Art Students League Instructor.

Young People's Studio is located in the center of Woodstock at 3 Tinker Street. For further detailed information contact Mrs. Bruce Dorfman in Woodstock.

Clendenon Delivers

Mets Take Opener From Pittsburgh in 11

IN A PICKLE — Caught in a first inning rundown is Pirate Roberto Clemente and tagged by Mets Second Baseman Wayne Garrett. Clemente was the second victim of a double play when Willie Stargell grounded to Art Shamsky, No. 24, at first. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

(By The UPI)

The New York Mets have finally run out of "firsts."

The Mets, who astounded the baseball world with their improbable rise to the World Championship last season, erased one of the last links to their laughable days Tuesday. They finally won an opening day game.

And they did it in "Met" fashion. Their ace pitcher, Tom Seaver, was rocked for nine hits including two triples and two doubles—one each by little Matty Alou, of all people. And they twice blew leads as the game went into extra innings.

But manager Gil Hodges used a former Pirate, Donn Clendenon, as a pinch-hitter for a pinch-hitter in the 11th inning. And Clendenon responded to the boos from the Pirate fans with a two-run single that gave the Mets a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh.

Right Move

Hodges, who made all the right moves last year including showing the umpire the ball with the shoe polish on it, originally sent lefthander Ken Boswell to face righthanded Chuck Hartenstein with the bases loaded in the 11th. The Mets had loaded the bases on Mike Jorgensen's single, an error by catcher Jerry May on Ron Swboda's attempted sacrifice, a sacrifice and an intentional walk.

When Manager Danny Murtaugh countered with lefthanded reliever Joe Gibbon, Hodges sent up the righthanded Clendenon. Gibbon's first pitch was tagged by Clendenon for the two-run single that won the game.

"Today the Mets put another, and probably the last, obstacle out of the way," Hodges said in reference to the Mets first opening day win. Last year the Mets lost their opener to Montreal, which was playing its first game as an expansion team, but went on to win it all.

Seaver said he thought he was "throwing well" even though he was tagged. He quipped, "Oh well, we weren't supposed to win anyway," in a reference to the Mets' opening day jinx.

In the other National League games, Philadelphia blanked Chicago 2-0, Houston downed San Francisco 8-5, Cincinnati shut out Los Angeles 4-0 and San Diego routed Atlanta 8-3.

Tommie Agee collected three hits for the Mets and scored a pair of runs. Ron Taylor pitched two scoreless innings of relief to get the win although Tug McGraw went the final inning. Steve Blass pitched the first 10 innings for Pittsburgh.

Two Stars

Chris Short and Gary Nolan, two pitchers who've been bothered by ailments, were brilliant in their openers.

Short, who pitched only twice last year before being sidelined by surgery on his back, tossed a five-hitter as the Phils beat the Cubs. Rookie Denny Doyle collected three hits including a run-scoring triple for the Phils. Ferguson Jenkins went seven innings and took the loss.

Nolan, a sore-armed "veteran" at age 21, looked almost as good as he did at age 18, tossing a two-hitter to give the Reds the victory over the Dodgers. Nolan's arm was strong as he struck out four and walk three. Tony Perez drove in two runs with a single and an infield out.

Nate Colbert hit a three-run homer in a five-run third inning as San Diego whipped Atlanta. Phil Nickro was rocked for the five runs and took the loss. Pat Dobson, obtained from Detroit in a trade for Phil's brother Joe Niekro, pitched eight innings and allowed eight hits. Ron Herbel finished up for the Padres.

Norm Miller's three-run homer in the seventh led Houston past San Francisco. Jim Perry gave up seven runs in seven innings and took the loss while Larry Dierker went the first six to get the win. Fred Gladding pitched hitless ball the final 1 2-3 innings to save the Houston win.

Boston Nips Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—A pair of run-scoring doubles by Rico Petrocelli and the strong relief pitching of southpaw Bill Lee carried the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory Tuesday over the New York Yankees in the American League opener for both teams.

Petrocelli, a New York native who is coming off the best season of his major league career, doubled home runs in the third and fifth innings in helping the Red Sox defeat Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre.

The Red Sox, one of the American League's best hitting teams, collected 10 hits off Stottlemyre in the five innings he worked for a 4-0 lead but it took some sharp relief work by Lee to preserve the victory as the Yankees pulled within a run with a three-run sixth inning outburst.

Lee took over for starter Gary Peters with one out and the tying run on second in the sixth. After walking Gene Michael, he retired pinch-hitter Ron Hansen on a line drive to center and got Horace Clarke to bounce out to first to end the threat. The lanky reliver allowed the Yanks only one over the final 3 2-3 innings.

Peters, who was credited with the victory, drove home the Red Sox' first run with a second-inning double. Petrocelli accounted for the next two with doubles. Gerry Moses scored Petrocelli in the fifth with a single for the Red Sox' final run.

Curt Blefary, acquired in an off-season trade, doubled home two runs for the Yanks in the sixth and Bobby Murcer accounted for the other run with a run-scoring single.

Brewers Defeated By Angels' Nine

By United Press International

Any doubt that major league baseball might find latent resentment in Milwaukee vanished Tuesday.

In a spectacular return to Milwaukee, a crowd of 37,237 fans—the largest in the majors—on Tuesday—gave the former Seattle Pilots a rousing welcome.

It didn't even matter that the week-old Brewers played exactly as they did as the old Seattle Pilots and got clobbered by the California Angels 12-0. What mattered to Milwaukee was that it has a locally owned team. The fans took the Brewers to their hearts.

"I really thought there might be some resentment against baseball because of the Braves," one official admitted, "but the minute it was announced that the Brewers were coming here, it all disappeared."

Milwaukee lost the Braves—despite unbelieveable support in the '50s—because the out-of-town Braves' owners wanted the TV revenue in Atlanta. Hemmed in by Lake Michigan, Chicago and the Minnesota Twins, Milwaukee isn't a great TV market.

Selig Not Worried

But the Brewers' local owner, Allan (Bud) Selig, who got a big cheer at the park, isn't worried about TV revenue. And don't be surprised if the Brewers outdraw the Braves this season.

Elsewhere in the American League, there was little room for sentiment. The teams figured to battle for the pennant in their respective divisions—Baltimore and Boston in the East and Minnesota and Oakland in the West—all won their openers. And the Detroit Tigers, figured to have little chance in the race with Denny McLain suspended for half a season, were routed by the Washington Senators, 14-4, in the second game for both clubs.

Baltimore routed Cleveland 8-2, Boston nipped New York 4-3, Oakland topped Kansas City 6-4 and Minnesota blasted Chicago 12-0.

Andy Messersmith pitched a four-hitter and the Angels collected 14 hits while routing Milwaukee. Steve Hovley had three of the Brewers' four hits. Lew Krausse took the loss.

Baltimore looked like the same team that ripped through the American League last year as it beat Cleveland. Held to three hits by Sam McDowell for six innings, the Orioles took a 3-2 lead in the seventh without a hit, getting two runs on five walks. They then tagged Dennis Higgins for four runs in the eighth to wrap it up.

Johnson Stars

Dave Johnson drove in three runs and Paul Blair doubled in two for the Orioles, who took advantage of a four-hit pitching job by Dave McNally.

Brant Alyea, picked up in a deal last month with Washington for Joe Grzenda and a minor league pitcher, drove in seven runs as Minnesota routed Chicago. Alyea had four hits including a pair of three-run homers. Jim Perry pitched a six-hitter for Minnesota while Tommy John took the loss.

Sal Bando and Don Mincher homered and Roland Fingers pitched four innings of one-hit relief ball as Oakland beat Kansas City. Fingers saved the victory for John Odom while Wally Bunker took the loss.

Detroit found out it's going to be a long season until Denny McLain's suspension ends on July 1. It normally would have been Mickey Lolich's turn to start Tuesday but he had to work the opener with McLain suspended. So, Earl Wilson got the start and he failed to survive the third inning as Washington routed six Tiger pitchers for 17 hits. Mike Epstein, Lee Maye, Ed Brinkman and Ken McMullen had three hits each and Epstein and Maye homered. Del Unser drove in four runs with two hits.

Incidently, Grzenda, the guy Washington got for Alyea, saved the victory for Casey Cox with four innings of two-hit relief ball.

What was that cliche about the trade that helps both teams?

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Brant Alyea, Twins, hammered two homers and two singles, driving in seven runs, as Minnesota drubbed the Chicago White Sox 12-0 in its season opener.

PITCHING—Gary Nolan, Reds, stymied Los Angeles on two singles in a 4-0 victory over the Dodgers.

Ellis Given Special Note

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ball players are always getting notes from girls.

This wasn't the usual note, though. Nor from the usual girl. It even was delivered by a special "messenger."

Recipient of the note was John Ellis, a big, blond firstbaseman who was with the New York Yankees briefly last season but still qualifies as a rookie because he didn't put in enough time.

The Note said:

"To John:

"For thirty years I have been looking for Lou's successor (if not better), and I am rooting for you."

The note was signed by Eleanor Gehrig, widow of the Yankees' late all-time great first baseman and she added the parenthetical notation (Mrs. Lou) after her name in case the 21-year-old Ellis was a little confused.

Ellis, who played first base for the Yankees in Tuesday's opener against the Red Sox at Yankee Stadium, was taken aback somewhat when he was handed Mrs. Gehrig's note before the game by Larry MacPhail, 80-year-old father of Yankee general manager Lee MacPhail and a former top executive for the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and Yankees themselves.

"I never saw Lou Gehrig but I certainly know who he was," Ellis said. "They called him 'The Iron Man' because he played with his hurts. He was the leader of the team and he gave 100 per cent all the time. That's the type of man I want to be."

MacPhail was given the note by Mrs. Gehrig at the ball park only a short time before he turned it over to Ellis, a strapping 6-foot-2, 220 pounder from New London, Conn.

"She said she would like to ask me a question," MacPhail explained. "And the question she asked me was who was playing first base for the Yankees today. I told her a boy by the name of John Ellis was and she asked me whether I had ever seen him play."

MacPahil said he had in an exhibition game with Minnesota at Orlando, Fla., last Tuesday, and in that game Ellis had hammered one ball off the center field wall and another one over the wall for a homer.

"Well," Mrs. Gehrig said to MacPahil. "I've been thinking of sending him this note. Do you think I ought to?"

"I'll take it down to him myself," Volunteered MacPhail after he was shown the note.

Ellis read it, then placed it carefully in his locker.

"What a wonderful thing to receive before the opener," Ellis said.

"Are you nervous? somebody asked the Yankee rookie.

"Certainly," John Ellis answered truthfully.

Johnson Leads The Money-Men

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Don Johnson, who claims Akron, Ohio, as his bowling town, heads the money winners in the Professional Bowling Association after he won the $10,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions here last weekend.

The slender Johnson formerly of Kokomo, Ind., pocketed $25,000 after last weekend's big win here and combined that with the $6,000 he won the previous weekend after taking the top honors in the New Orleans Open. He now has won $35,690, and surpassed George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., who had been the leader.

Pappas fell to second with his $25,840 after winning $1,175 in the Firestone. Third is Davie Davis of Miami, Fla., with $24,885.

The top ten money winners are:

1. Don Johnson, Akron, Ohio	$35,690
2. George Pappas, Charlotte, N.C.	25,840
3. Dave Davis, Miami, Fla.	24,885
4. Mike McGrath, El Cerrito, Calif.	24,460
5. Dick Ritger, Hartford, Wis.	23,195
6. Nelson Burton Jr., St. Louis	20,291
7. Skee Foremsky, Houston, Tex.	19,488
8. Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill.	18,850
9. Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif.	18,044
10. Johnny Petraglia, Brooklyn, N.Y.	16,685

Consider yourself a crate of eggs.

As a crate of eggs, there's always the danger of becoming 'an omelet'. But in a Renault 16 you wouldn't have to worry. It has a unique 4-wheel independent suspension system that has caused Road Test Magazine to write: "the ride of the Renault 16 can be compared only with that of the Rolls Royce, Mercedes, or Citroen."

Which should be of great comfort to any crate of eggs, let alone a human being.

New York Jets Basketeers Here Tonight

MIKE BATTLE

KINGSTON

The basketball version of the New York Jets is in town tonight to do battle with an all-star college array assembled by Coach Chil Caruso.

Game time is 8 p.m. at the municipal auditorium and there will be no preliminary.

Among the football Jets — World Champions of the 1968-69 season — who have switched mufti for a highly successful and profitable winter tour are no less than Emerson Boozer, Mike Battle, Gerry Philbin, Dave Herman, Ralph Baker and John Schmitt, Steve Thompson and others.

"This is no show team," Coach Caruso said. "Most of the Jets have had college basketball experience and they play a tough game. We don't expect any pushovers."

Caruso listed five players among the College All Stars and said others would be added to the squad before game time.

Strong on Squad

The stickout with the collegians is Ed Strong, former Sullivan County Community ace, who has just completed a great career with St. Peter's College of Jersey City.

Two Ulster County Community seniors — Gary Kirkwood and Tony Plough — are also listed along with Mike Seymour, one of the top scorers with the Siena College Indians.

Mayor Francis E. (Frank) Koenig, a former Siena College great, is expected to make a token appearance for the collegians. Hizzoner, just back from a Florida vacation, played under the late great Siena coach, Dan Cunha, who piloted the Indians to national ranking.

Caruso is expected to bolster the college lineup with additional players from the Albany tri-city area. "We are working on a couple of big names," he said.

Football buffs should have a field day ogling the gridiron greats.

Had Longest Punt

For example, Steve Thompson unloaded the longest punt of the NFL season—a 98 yarder. Battle is the sensational defensive and punt return artist.

Philbin was All-League defensive end; Herman was All-League at offensive guard and Schmidt was an all-league center.

The contest is a prelude to the annual Kingston Basketball Tournament which gets under way next week in the auditorium.

The KBT field is headed by the defending champion DeMicco Motors. Other entries include Ray Chevrolet, Ted Feeney's Five, West Point Faculty, St. Andrew's Bishops, Felicello Pipers, Paddock's Chargers and Saugerties All Stars.

West, Lakers Concentrate on Suns' 5

PHOENIX (UPI) — Jerry West says it's concentration but whatever the reason the Los Angeles Lakers have suddenly thrust themselves back into the NBA playoff picture.

With Atlanta, New York and Milwaukee sitting back and relaxing, the Lakers evened their Western Division series with the Phoenix Suns at 3-3 Tuesday night with a 104-93 victory.

"We are concentrating more," West said following his 35-point performance in Los Angeles' second straight win.

"We may have taken Phoenix too lightly and have been too lackadaisical in the first four games. Phoenix is a good ball club. But we made less mistakes and played better team defense tonight."

If the Lakers win at Los Angeles Thursday night, and they will be favored, they will become the second team in the league's history to overcome a 3-1 deficit and capture a series.

The Boston Celtics accomplished the feat in a 1968 series with the Philadelphia 76ers.

Wilt Chamberlain was the Lakers' defensive star as Phoenix was held to its lowest point total of the series. He scored only 12 points but picked off 26 rebounds.

Los Angeles coach Joe Mullaney couldn't predict a Laker victory Thursday night.

"Of course, we have the home court advantage but I expect both teams to come in more relaxed than they were tonight," he said.

"I think we just worked harder on defense and better as a team. And our shooting was improved."

The Lakers hit 42 per cent of their field goal attempts while the Suns made only 34 per cent.

"We just had a bad game," Phoenix coach Jerry Colangelo declared. "Maybe it was because it is our first shot at the playoffs and were under extra pressure wanting to end the series at home."

The Suns won't make any adjustments for the seventh game. "We have been doing all right this far and I see no reason to change," their mentor explained.

Starting center Jim Fox, who missed Sunday night's Los Angeles win with an ankle sprain, returned to the Suns' lineup and scored 13 points.

Elgin Baylor and Dick Garrett each hit 19 points for Los Angeles while Keith Erickson had 15, nine in the last quarter when the Lakers broke the game open after a 73-73 deadlock after three quarters.

For Phoenix, Connie Hawkins had 24 and Dick Van Arsdale tallied 21.

Honorable Mention For SU's Steve Dane

NEW PALTZ

Steve Dane, who was New Paltz State's biggest basketeer at 6-foot-7, has earned honorable mention on the 1969-70 State University Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) all-star basketball team.

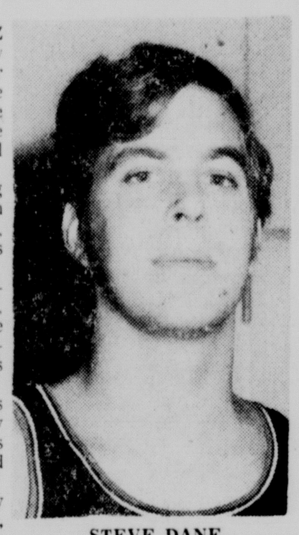

Dane, who came on strong for Coach Doug Sheppard in the second half of the season, scored 145 points in 16 games for a 9.1 average.

Randy Smith, conference scoring leader from Buffalo State, and Geneseo's Tom Sisson were unanimous choices on the 10-man team selected by coaches in the conference.

Smith's Buffalo teammates also chosen were Glenn Henley and Ken Zak. Cortland was represented by Mike Eidel and Earl Rogers.

The others chosen were Larry Miller of Oswego; John Mosher, Plattsburgh; George Peiper, Potsdam; and Tom Scaglione of Fredonia.

Joining Dane on the honorable mention list were: Joe Foster, Bob James, Fred Forbes and Larry Burroughs of Brockport; Stan James, Ron Childs and Rich Woodward of Geneseo; Mike Edelstine and Chuck Jones, Oneonta; Stan Yankowski and Ted Novak, Oswego; Tom Broschel, Buffalo; Joe Williams and Amos Goodwine of Fredonia.

Gordie Howe Is Ready For Stanley Cup Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least the Stanley Cup playoffs still have Gordie Howe even if they don't have the Montreal Canadiens.

The National Hockey League post-season fight for the Stanley, symbol of world supremacy, starts tonight with the Canadiens on the sidelines for the first time in 22 years.

Winners of a record 12 Stanley Cups including the 1969 championship, Montreal was shoved out of the playoffs in 1970 on the final day of regular season play by New York .

The venerable Howe hasn't been in quite as many playoffs as the Canadiens but this marks the 19th year for the durable Detroit star, who recently celebrated his 42nd birthday.

Two games in each division tonight start the best-of-seven quarter-final series in the NHL and with Toronto also on the sidelines the United States is assured of its first Stanley Cup since 1961, when Chicago won.

In the East, New York is at Boston and Detroit at Chicago. The West matches send Minnesota to St. Louis and Oakland to Pittsburgh.

Howe's 19 years in the playoffs equals the NHL record held by Red Kelly, who is also a Stanley Cup playoff participant this year—but as coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Gordie needs a total of 14 playoff games to equal the record of 164 by Kelly, who was 1948-67 except 1959 while playing for the Red Wings and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

In his 150 previous playoff games, Howe has scored 156 points, including 91 assists—both postseason marks.

This is the first time in modern NHL history there is an all-American cast for the Stanley.

The East combatants are fresh from the wildest race in NHL history. The Black Hawks wound up in first place, becoming the first club to move from last place to a regular season title in one year. Boston was second, Detroit third and New York fourth.

Chicago will pit the firepower of Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita plus rookie goalie Tony Esposito, whose 15 shutouts were a modern NHL record, against Detroit's veterans, headed by Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich.

The Red Wings have won more Stanley Cups than any other American team. They last captured it in 1955 and won six earlier times. The Black Hawks are three-time winners.

For Boston, 1941 was the last Stanley Cup year and it's been a year longer since the Rangers achieved supremacy on the ice. Each team has won a total of three Stanley Cups.

Western Quintets Play Musical Chairs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles, Washington, Dallas and New Orleans played musical chairs again in the Western Division of the American Basketball Association but they didn't disturb Denver.

After Tuesday night's games, there were new second, third, fourth and fifth place teams in the West following these results: Los Angeles 129, Miami 114; Kentucky 118, Dallas 112; and Washington 115, New Orleans 111.

Washington moved into second place in the hot scrap for playoff berths, followed by Dallas, Los Angeles and New Orleans, which is now a half-game behind the Stars in the battle for the final post-season spot.

Denver, in last place until a coaching change after the season started, was idle but the Rockets can clinch at least a tie for the West championship tonight by beating Dallas and win the title outright if Washington also loses to Los Angeles.

Tuesday night's ABA double header at Washington Coliseum conflicted with a Senators-Detroit major league baseball game but basketball won the attendance fight 4,018-3,372.

Rick Barry's 19-point explosion in the fourth quarter led the Caps past New Orleans. Washington overcame a 12-point deficit and outscored the Bucs 38-22 in the final period. Barry finished with 44 points while Steve Jones was high for New Orleans with 26.

The first game saw Los Angeles roar to a 67-46 halftime lead over Miami and then coast in the final period. Willie Wise's 26 points and George Stone's 23 paced the Stars. Don Sidle led Miami with 24.

Kentucky broke Dallas' five-game winning streak as Darel Carrier scored six clutch points in the final 39 seconds for the Colonels. Carrier finished with 38 points while Dallas' high man was Cincy Powell with 27 points.

Five Cars Added For '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Five more cars were entered Tuesday for the annual Indianapolis 500-mile race, and veterans Dan Gurney and Art Pollard were assigned to them. The field now totals 47.

Gurney, Santa Ana, Calif., who won last Sunday's 150-mile USAC road race at Sears Point, Calif., will have his choice of two Eagles entered by Max Muhleman, Santa Ana.

Pollard, Medford, Ore., will drive one of three machines entered by the Race Go Corp.

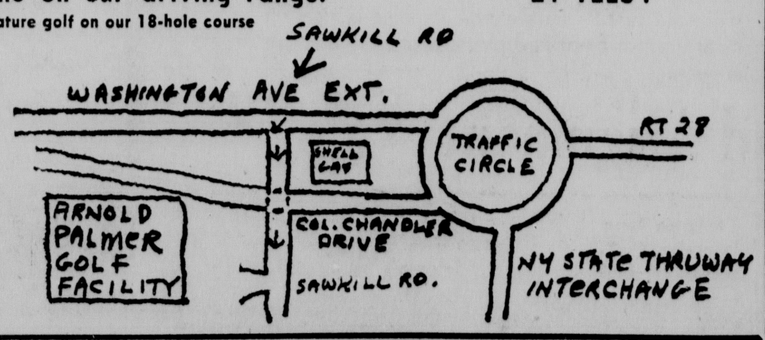

All five cars will be powered by four cylinder, turbo-charged Offenhauser engines.

Gurney will be seeking his ninth consecutive starting berth in the Memorial Day classic. The last two years he won runnerup honors at the Speedway in cars powered by stock-block V8 Ford units.

Pollard, eighth as a rookie here in 1967, will seek a starting position for the fourth straight year.

Wiltwyck Golfers Set Major Events

KINGSTON — The Wiltwyck Country Club men's golf calendar for 1970 lists seven major events, with the opener, a Member-Member-Guest tournament scheduled for Sunday, May 17.

Other topflight events listed include a 36-hole Member-Guest, the three-day Invitational, President's Cup, the club championships and the Hudson River Golf Association Seniors and Day at Golf.

Wiltwyck hosts the final round of the Herdegen Memorial championship on Sunday, June 21.

The opening Member-Member-Guest will be played under a new format which allows play with either guest or member. The second Member-Guest is scheduled September 19-20, as the last major tournament of the season.

The annual President's Cup competition at 36 holes is scheduled on the July 4 weekend and the HRGA events on Sept. 12.

Championship at Medal

This year's club championship flight will be contested at medal play, with all other flights at match play. First weekend is Aug. 15-16, with flights scheduled for three successive weekends.

The Invitational, considered the highlight of the annual calendar, will be played the weekend of July 17-18-19.

Dr. Martin E. Kantor is chairman of the men's golf division, with Donald DeKoskie in charge of tournaments. Leon Randall heads the Invitational committee.

Other committee chairmen are: Alan G. Cox, rules; Herbert F. Gertner, handicaps; Charles Stauffer Jr., special events; Robert Steuding, publicity; Clifford C. Spiesman, junior golf.

Bostic Is Captain

Harvey Bostic has been designated team captain for 1970 and is a delegate to the HRGA with Dr. Kantor. Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Jr. represents Wiltwyck on the Eastern New York Golf Association board of governors.

The schedule:

MAY

May 17 — Member-Member-Guest; 30—Flag tournament.

JUNE

June 7 — Club Seniors; 21 — Herdegen Memorial finals.

JULY

July 4-5 — Flag tournament, President's Cup (36 holes); 12 — Husband-Wife championship; 17-18-19—Invitational Weekend.

AUGUST

August 9—Father-Son; 15-16—Club championship, championship flight (medal play), others at match play; 16—J. Watson Bailey and Maurice Davenport Tournament for juniors; 22-23—club flights; 29-30—club flight finals.

SEPTEMBER

Sept. 6—Flag tournament; 12—Hudson River Golf Association Seniors, Day at Golf; 19-20—Member-Guest Weekend.

Changes Set At Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, two notoriously long hitters, agreed today that they—and other long hitters—will reap the greatest dividends in changes made in the Augusta National course for the 34th Masters Golf Tournament, starting Thursday.

"I figure it'll hold the big hitter by three or four shots for the four days," said Palmer, who will shooting for his fourth Masters title.

"I don't necessarily agree with the changes but they'll definitely give me an advantage," acknowledged Nicklaus, who has three Masters green coats in his closet and, as the longest hitter in the game, is favored to make it four in the 72-hole event which ends Sunday.

The last two days will be televised by CBS, 5-6 P.M., EST, Saturday and 4-5:30 P.M., EST, Sunday.

The two major changes in the 6,980-yard, par 72 courses concern the first and 15th holes. On the 400-yard opening hole, a trap at the right of the fairway has been extended 10-15 yards.

On the 520-yard, par 5 15th, where Gene Sarazen made his famous double eagle in 1935, the tee has been relocated, extending the distance some 25 yards, and a cluster of small mounds—looking like dinosaur graves—were placed on the right side of the fairway in the normal target area.

"Not many players will attempt to reach the 15th in two," said Nicklaus. "I can still do it—with a brassie if the wind is in my face and with a long iron if I get a good tee shot."

Nicklaus, because of his power, is a 4-1 favorite in the field of 83, which includes the top name golfers of the world. The breakdown is: 55 U.S. professionals, 13 U.S. amateurs, 16 foreign pros and one foreign amateur.

Play starts at approximately 9 a.m. with those two octogenarians—Freddy McLeod, 87, and Jock Hutchison, 85, champions of an another generation—serving again as honorary starters.

This isn't the richest tournament on the schedule but is one of the most prestigious, the winner being promised a million dollars in endorsements and other fringe benefits.

The total purse last year was $186,975 with $20,000 going to George Archer, the winner. George Knudson, Bill Casper and Tom Weiskopf, who tied for runner up, got $12,333 each.

The towering Archer, a 6-foot-6 Houdini on the greens, doesn't think much of his chances of repeating. Since his 1969 victory, he has had nothing but trouble — a stomach ailment, then arm problems, a hitch in his swing.

"I developed a bad hook and now I've got a slice," he said forlornly.

As for Casper, Pro of the Year and leading money winner in 1968, the quiet man from Bonita, Calif., who led through the third round a year ago, is playing it cool although allergies forced him to miss the entire Florida tour.

"I'm playing all right. I've had a 70 and 71 in practice," Casper said. "I have a new set of clubs, lighter steel shafts, and I'm hitting the ball higher and farther. I'll continue to play the course conservative — I don't think you can attack it."

Orville Moody, the moon-faced U.S. Open champion, is playing in his first Masters and he's pleased to find the Augusta course not the ogre he expected.

"I was scared to death when I came here," he said. "But, shucks, the course is not so tough. The fairways are wide and t here's plenty of hitting room. I think my game is geared for this kind of course."

Gary Player, the South African who is constantly surrounded by a cordon of uniformed and plain-clothes security men because of rumored threats from militant racist groups, continues on the hot streak that won him the Greater Greensboro Open last Sunday.

"I'm really pleased with my game—I consider my chances good," said the little physical fitness expert who beat out Palmer here in 1961.

He's the only foreigner ever to win here. No amateur has succeded but Steve Melnyk, the 240-pound U.S. Amateur champion from Jacksonville, Fla., says, "I think an amateur can win. I haven't been over par in practice. Yes, with a break, I could win it."

Still everybody fears the powerful Nicklaus, recalling his record 271 score in 1965.

"The course is firm—the firmest it's been since 1961," says Big Jack. "The fairways are not lush—they'll have a lot of roll. The greens will be lightning fast. That means low scores for the good golfer, the man who has knowledge of the course."

LL Registration

KINGSTON — Tryouts for the Hurley Little League will be held this weekend. Trials for boys 10 and 11 will be staged Saturday and boys 9-12 will try out Sunday. Action will begin at 1 p.m. on the West Hurley Firehouse field. Minor league ball players are also welcome.

Rain dates will be scheduled for the corresponding time on the following weekend and any boys who didn't make the registration may do so at 12 noon on the day of the tryout.

Arlington Gains Victory On No-Hit Performance

FREEDOM PLAINS — Arlington High School's baseball team, winners of everything in sight last year in the Duchess County Scholastic League Central Section, got no-hit pitching from Steve Cribbley and Cal Reuping to defeat the visiting nine from Red Hook yesterday, 9-1.

The game was a non-league contest and the first game of the season for both schools.

Reuping scored three times and Hayden Young twice as the champs took advantage of five errors by the visitors. The Admirals tallied three in the first, one in the third and five in the bottom of the fifth. The game was called because of darkness at the end of six innings.

Red Hook scored in the third stanza as losing pitcher Jeff Thompson and Mike Asip drew walks. Jack Townsend then hit a shot to short that was bobbled. A play was attempted on Thompson at third, but again the ball was dropped and Thompson scampered home on the fielder's choice and error.

Cornwall Team Blasts Dukes

CORNWALL — The Green Dragons of Cornwall, defending champs in Section A of the Orange County League blasted 11 hits to bomb visiting Marlboro, 16-0, yesterday in a non-league opener.

Jim Clouser and Bill Lark shared the mound duties and limited the Dukes to just two hits. The winners broke the game open early with nine runs in the first inning. The biggest blow was delivered by Don Holbrook, a bases-loaded triple.

Rich Gerentine was the losing hurler.

LEGAL NOTICE

ULSTER COUNTY JAIL
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids are requested for Test Borings for the proposed New County Jail on the premises of the County of Ulster, in the City of Kingston, New York, for the County of Ulster, said contracts to cover all labor and materials.

Sealed Proposals completed on the forms herein, with all items to be filled in, extended and totaled, shall be received by the County of Ulster on or before 2 p.m., April 22, 1970, at the office of the Clerk of the Ulster County Legislature, County Office Building, Kingston, New York at that time publicly opened and read aloud.

Instruction to Bidders, Proposal Forms, General Conditions, Drawings and Specifications may be examined by Bidders at the office of Albert Edward Milliken, Architect, 224 Fair Street, Kingston, New York. Copies of these documents may be obtained at this office upon payment of a deposit of ($25.00) twenty five dollars.

As a guarantee of good faith, each Proposal must be accompanied by the deposit of a certified check payable to the order of the County Treasurer, Ulster County, New York, or suitable Bid Bond, in the sum amounting to 5% of the total amount of the bid. All deposits, except that of the successful Bidder will be returned within forty five days after the opening of the Bids.

The right is reserved to waive any informality in or reject any or all bids submitted.

No Bidder may withdraw a bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof.

Upon acceptance of any Bid, the successful Bidder shall execute a contract with the County of Ulster, State of New York, and furnish a suitable Performance Bond in accordance with the General Conditions of the contract and acceptable to the County Attorney. The deposit heretofore mentioned for 5% of the bid shall be forfeited and retained as liquidated damages if the successful Bidder neglects or refuses to execute the said contract and furnish said Bond.

The State Level Republicans (ROCKY GOODELL JAVITS) Have Let You Down

THE GREAT WAGES SNATCH

Every week, throughout New York, millions of hard-working men look at their pay slips and think, "I've been robbed".

But they don't cry "Stop thief". They don't dial the police. They know it would do no good. This time, the robbery's legal!

Grab, Grab, Grab

Since Rocky came into office in 1959, state spending has risen from $1.5 billion to over $7 billion. Every major state tax has been raised, and 3 new ones created. New York residents pay more state and local taxes than residents of any other state ($457 per capita).

Why We Call It Robbery

This is money the state didn't have to take. It could have been left with the people who earned it, to spend or save as they thought fit.

Control of the N. Y. State Republican Party rests in the offices held by these Liberals-in-Republican-clothing. The party mechanism has been used callously, to maintain spendthrifts in office . . . with total disregard for the wishes of grassroots Republican taxpayers.

The N. Y. State Republican Party will not be responsive to grassroots wage earners until the Rocky/Javits/Goodell claque is deposed.

No Obstacle on Proposal To Avert Railroad Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House members saw no obstacle today for quick passage of President Nixon's proposal to avert a nationwide rail strike.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, noting the Senate Labor Committee approved the bill unanimously Monday, with little delay.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee which approved the measure 15-12 Tuesday, said he hoped the House also could clear it this afternoon.

There are minor differences between the two versions. But sponsors said these undoubtedly would be ironed out in time to get the bill to Nixon for signing before the Saturday strike deadline.

That's when the 37-day prohibition against a strike voted by Congress runs out.

The legislation would impose on the four shopcraft unions involved in the dispute and the rail lines a settlement which their negotiators worked out in December.

It was ratified by members of three unions—the machinists, electrical workers and boiler makers. But the members of one—the sheet metal workers—rejected it and mediators have been unable to work out an agreement since that time.

The December settlement provided pay increases of 68 cents an hour retroactively and prospectively for the 47,000 employes involved in the dispute.

The current hourly wage is $3.60.

The contract offer also contained a new work rule sought by the carriers which many sheet metal workers said they believed would cause them to lose jobs to members of the other three crafts.

The rule allowed members of all four unions to do a limited amount of work in each other's traditional job jurisdictions. The sheet metal workers represent only about 6,000 of the 45,000 workers.

The agreement runs only to the end of this year and can be reopened for negotiations by the unions in September.

Buffalo Area Youth Killed By Rail Guard

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A railroad policeman fatally shot a youth he said was intruding in a freight yard in nearby Sloan Tuesday night.

The youth, who died shortly after arrival at Meyer Memorial Hospital, remained unidentified early today. Police said he wore a high school ring bearing the engraved initials F.D.J.

Patrolman Richard Fumerelle of the Norfolk & Western Railroad police said he saw the youth near transport freight cars loaded with about 200 new automobiles.

The policeman said he grabbed the youth, who allegedly broke free, jumped in his car and attempted to run the officer down.

The youth, Fumerelle said, then tried unsuccessfully to drive through a locked chain-link fence.

The policeman said he could not recall when he fired his service revolver. Police said the bullet struck the youth in the shoulder and lodged in his chest.

Several railroad policemen were on patrol because of a recent rash of thefts of tires, batteries and other parts from the new cars, officials said.

Oil Tanker Runs Aground

COLD SPRING, N.Y. (AP)—An empty 225-foot oil tanker returning to port in New York City ran aground on Constitution Island on the east shore of the Hudson River here Tuesday night, but the U.S. Coast Guard reported no immediate danger to the crew of seven men.

The Coast Guard said that the Moriania Marlin, owned by the Moriana Marlin Transport Co. of New York City, had discharge its oil cargo at Kingston and was returning south when it struck the hidden rocks.

The tanker was reported to be taking water and a cutter was dispatched from the Coast Guard base at Governors Island.

Meanwhile, a Coast Guard helicopter furnished with pumps was circling above the stranded tanker, but no further action was taken, pending assessment of the damage to the port tanks.

DWI Charged To City Driver

TOWN OF ESOPUS

Sylvester Beverly, 49, of 249 East Union Street, Kingston, was arrested Tuesday night by Highland state police on charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and speeding along Route 9W.

Beverly was arraigned before Town Justice John O. Beaver, who entered pleas of innocent and adjourned hearing until April 14. In lieu of $100 bail, Beverly was committed to the Ulster County jail.

Trooper Brian Mitchell accused the motorist of driving in excess of 70 miles an hour, authorities said.

A Franz Rambler Gremlin proves an economy drive can be fun, too!

Gremlin brings driving fun to the import field. Many economy imports are underpowered, sluggish, and difficult to control on the freeway. Not Gremlin. Gremlin has a standard 128 hp six to give it real zip. That makes it fun to operate. It's only 2½ inches longer than VW, so you thread through traffic with ease. And it's nearly 800 pounds heavier for stable freeway driving. Most fun of all is the price, an anti-inflationary.

Introducing A Used Car Guarantee... It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

OUR AFFILIATION WITH A TOP TRADING AREA ALLOWS US TO BRING TO ULSTER COUNTY A VERY HIGH CALIBRE BRAND OF MERCHANDISE AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICE.

We also guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys, Fords, Ramblers, VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens).

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

LARGEST SELECTION OF

Dear Abby

He Dominates Plans

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 22 years. We have five children, three are away at college. The two at home are boys, 11 and 15. I want to put the boys in a very fine summer camp and go to visit my mother for six weeks this summer. I have never done this before and my husband is having a fit! He says I can do it only over his dead body. (What a temptation!)

Every vacation we visit his mother, and that's where he wants to go again. They boys say they don't want to go to visit Grandmother (his mother) again this summer and can't blame them as there is nothing for them to do there.

Only one summer since I've been married have I visited my mother. I have no objection to my husband's spending his summer vacation with his mother, but I want to spend mine with my mother. How can I persuade my husband to let me go?

DOMINATED

DEAR DOMINATED: After 22 years of admitted "Domination" it won't be easy to "assert" yourself, but you can try. Appeal to his sense of fair play and logic. If he doesn't budge, ask him to put the question to an impartial third party. And if he still gives you that "over my dead body" routine, before you leave for your mother's, ask him to sign a statement stating that when you left he was alive and kicking.

DEAR ABBY: Have you heard about the new doll they are going to put on the market? It is called the MAMMA DOLL, and this is how it is described in the newspaper advertisement:

"When the doctor lifts the mama doll's skirt, a baby doll will slide out. On the baby doll's chest is written, " I am the result of LOVE."

It says in the ad that a child psychologist approves of this doll.

Abby, this is about the worst thing I have ever heard of! When they made dolls that walked, talked, and danced, that was fine, because the whole idea of a doll is to give a child something to play with, but I really thought they went a little too far when they made a doll who could wet her pants. And now this! I think the idea of making a doll who can "give birth" is sick!

I would like your opinion. Maybe it's still not too late to stop it.

HORRIFIED

DEAR HORRIFIED: I am not as "horrified" as you, since toys today are being made to educate as well as entertain children. If such a doll is made, YOU don't have to buy one. Or would you like to impose your sense of propriety on other parents?

DEAR ABBY: You recently compared the unpleasant odor of an unwashed man to that of a "MOUNTAIN GOAT"! You surely must have meant a "BARNYARD BILLY GOAT." Mountain goats do not smell bad, but barnyard billy goats do.

The mountain goat is one of our finest and cleanest big game animals.

I think you owe the mountain goats and apology.

KNOWS HIS GOATS

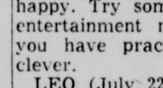

DEAR KNOWS: If there is an International Brotherhood of Mountain Goats, to them I hereby offer my most humble apologies. And in the future, if I ever decide to get anybody's goat, I shall first determine whether it's Mountain or Billy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.M.: "He who cannot forgive others, breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass if he would ever reach heaven; for everyone has need to be forgiven." (Herbert)

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now are able to organize your material affairs in such a manner that you have much more financial security. But you have to be painstaking. Take no chances. Make preparations to launch the big undertaking that interests you so much.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can be preoccupied with financial and property affairs and how to get along better with co-workers. Being more cooperative is your best bet. Be kind and more understanding with those around you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are at your best with friends who have a lot in common with you. Delve only in pleasure that you truly like. Do not argue with that irritable individual who ruins your nerves.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) There is much to be done at home so get family to assist you. You will then have more free time for outside activities. Do not take any chances with present security. Be with tried-and-true firends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talk over that trip or some change you want to make with good friends and be happy. Try some new form of entertainment now. Show that you have practical ideas. Be clever.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A higher-up expects much from you now, but consider his worries and be more cooperative. Be more serious about work responsibilities. Add much to prestige you now enjoy. Be happy with loved one tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It would be wiser to re-evaluate your various activities and study new ones that an intelligent and practical ffriend suggests. Show appreciation for ideas given you. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep your problems to yourself or you run the risk of losing valued friendships. Organize everything with others more intelligently. Show that you have faith.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nv. 21) You are interested in going out for some entertainment but be sure you go along with charming and dependable persons. Find out what mate expects of you. Do your utmost to please.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day and evening to do your work in such a way criticize. Develop a different working approach and improve your image. Be clever with those who are trying to deceive you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) First handle all details of important work. Then socialize with others and show you have a sense of humor. Show that you have finesse where some situation is concerned. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You now understand what close ties want of you, so be sure to please them instead of going off on tangents. Be sure you handle all responsibilities wisely. Show that you are reliable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to find out just what your true position is with associates and those who oppose you. Combine efforts more intelligently in the future. Listen to constructive criticism of an ally.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY.. he or she will be one of those charming young people who is deeply restless. But if you take the time to listen to what is said, you can then stabilize this nature. Teach the right principles and precepts, but do so in a very clear and concise way. Make sure that your progeny has the right diet early. Enough exercise also is important. An artistic bent develops here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LONG DROUTH: (Q.) I haven't had a date in three months. I don't know why. It really hurts because I am constantly around couples. All my sisters have boy friends and my three closest friends are dating.

I'm not outgoing, but I try to be nice to the boys I meet. My friends have fixed me up with several dates in the past, but nothing ever comes of it. I'm just looking for a boy who will say he cares about me. Can you help me? I'm 16.—Tired of Waiting in Melrose Park, Pa.

(A.) You may do better by picking out a shy guy who is, like you, a little out of the mainstream right now. Be friendly around him. If he's friendly in return, suggest that he call you.

But in doing the suggesting—and before and after—never act eager or anxious or apologetic.

If the first boy you try doesn't respond, don't give up. Try another one. Eventually you'll find a boy who can care for you and who will tell you so.

OLD HURT: (Q.) My friend likes a guy I used to go with. I gave him her phone number about a week ago and all I've heard since then is his name.

I like another boy, now, but I still have a lot of feeling for this guy. It bothers me when she tells me he called and they are going out.

What should I say when she talks about him? If I let her know it bothers me she'll just keep it up, won't she?—Tender in Orlando, Fla.

(A.) She might. But there's another way. When she starts talking about your old boy friend, just change the subject.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Stars Make Oscar Show a Hit

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Three veteran movie stars—Fred Astaire, Cary Grant and John Wayne—gave ABC-TV's Academy Awards program its most memorable moments Tuesday night.

The star of stars, by all odds, was the amazing, seemingly ageless, indefatigable Astaire, the most graceful performer in the history of American motion pictures, and probably Hollywood's most gracious human being as well.

It was Astaire who electrified the audience when he broke into a lively dance number upon invitation of Bob Hope. Astaire, in case you didn't know, is 70 years old. I don't know how many times he has said he won't dance in show business any more because he's getting on in years. But it has become clear that, when the chance arises, and it appeals to him, he will dance on and on.

But, in addition to Astaire's dancing, there were the appearances of Grant and Wayne. Grant, who ranks right up there with Astaire as the essence of style, was given a special award for his brilliant career.

Wayne, meanwhile, won the best actor award for his performance in "True Grit." And he was an excellent addition to the broadcast—from his acceptance speech, in which he was quite obviously moved, to his part-time host duties, to his presenting chores.

There was, by the way, an unintentionally hilarious ending announcement to the broadcast that indicated the state of the movie industry today. As the program began to sign off, an announcer intoned the fact that "Midnight Cowboy," which won the best-picture award, was X-rated.

ABC TV also had two other programs billed as "specials" Tuesday night. One, "The Mad, Mad, Mad Comedians," was a half-hour cartoon featuring the voices and likenesses of famous comics as they delivered their routines, which also were fully animated. The point of such a program was never quite clear, and it succeeded well only in Flip Wilson's marvelous routine on how Columbus came to discover America.

The other so-called special was a variety hour with the conceited title "The Bob Goulet Show Starring Robert Goulet." The program lived up to the tone of the title. And, for some reason, when the show was over, the first thing that popped into my mind was baked ham.

South's jump to four hearts illustrates another bridge disease: Overvaluation of your own suit. We can't blame North for blasting to a slam after that jump nor can we fault West for doubling the slam. His trump holding looked good enough to be proof against any series of plays by declarer.

Actually, West was so sure of himself that he decided to go out for a big set. Therefore, he opened the jack of diamonds and sat back to cash in on the expected bonanza.

There was a bonanza, all right, but it went to North and South. South promptly cashed dummy's top diamonds to get rid of his spades. Then he ruffed a spade, went to dummy with a top club, ruffed another spade, played another club to dummy and ruffed a third spade.

At this point, South had eight tricks in and was holding his ace-king-jack of trumps and two baby clubs. North held two spades, a diamond and the 10-6 of trumps. Poor West still had the five trumps he had started with.

Now South led one of his little clubs. West went into one of those huddles to end all huddles. South showed him his hand but West continued to huddle. Finally South said, "I'll let you try both plays you ar thinking of. If you ruff low, I will just overruff in dummy for my ninth trick and will still make all my trumps, since I have no intention of ruffing with my jack. If you ruff high, you will have no way to keep me from making all my three trumps and dummy's 10 later on."

WHY WE SAY

SICK: A shaking of the earth is called an earthquake. In the Middle Ages it was believed that the earth was suffering from an illness similar to chills and fever and shaking. The word quake is derived from the Old English "cwacian" which meant to be sick.

Several Viewpoints Expressed

Republican Ticket...Some Misgivings

By CHARLES DUMAS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — New York Republicans left Rochester today with — depending on how they viewed it — three fifths or four fifths of a winning state election ticket.

They seemed confident that Gov. Rockefeller, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz would win fourth terms in November.

No one, however, seriously expected that political unknown Edward V. Regan would be able to head off Democratic Comptroller Arthur Levitt's bid for a fifth term. The doubters included Regan himself, who confessed to a reporter that his victory prospects were "very slim."

Many other participants in the Republican State Committee meeting had serious misgivings also about the future of the ticket's fifth member, U.S. Sen. Charles E. Goodell.

Some of the committee members booed when Goodell's name was placed in nomination. A few shouted "no" on the voice vote that bestowed the party's official endorsement on him. Some showed their distaste by abstaining from the voting on his designation.

What everybody should know by now is that the bulk of orthodox Republicans in this state continue to regard Goodell as an unpalatable maverick, because of his increasingly vocal dissents from the policies of President Nixon. Moreover, they see Goodell as a likely loser in the general election.

It wasn't so much that Goodell comes on as too liberal for their taste. So does the state's senior senator, Jacob K. Javits, but they have given him strong support in his three successful election campaigns.

The difference is that, as one committeeman put it, "Javits always was Javits—besides, he's from New York City and he had to be Liberal to get elected."

The resentment against Goodell stems from the fact that, while the Jamestown lawmaker performed as a moderate during his service as a congressman, he veered abruptly to the left after his appointment by Rockefeller to fill the late Robert F. Kennedy's senate seat. There is a feeling among the conservative rank-and-file that Goodell deserted them—that he became a turncoat—and they are unable to forgive him.

Acting much like a woman scorned, the orthodox element vented its displeasure through the booing and the abstaining—relatively harmless but soul-satisfying exercises.

The Goodell critics could have gone farther, but they were restrained by Rockefeller's thinly veiled, previous threat to pull out of the campaign if his appointee were rebuffed by the party.

FIVE STATE GOP HOPEFULS (UPI Telephoto)

"You can't argue with a winner," a committeeman said, explaining why the party yielded to Rockefeller's pressure "Rocky's got broad coat-tails, and we all like the ride. I guess we'd take Karl Marx if he insisted."

As proof that the committeemen knew of what he spoke, the party accepted Rockefeller's handpicked choice to run for state comptroller sight unseen — literally.

Regan, a former Buffalo City councilman, was returning from a San Francisco business trip when his name was brought before the committee for ratification. His designation was acclaimed blissfully, although most people in the meeting room had never seen or heard of him.

One committeewoman happily waggled a sign proclaiming Regan was her choice for comptroller. "I'm for Ray-gan," she chirped.

It's pronounced Ree-gan, by the way.

Conservatives — No Unexpected Name

NEW YORK (UPI) — Taking the cue from their Republican cousins, the state Conservative party gaveled down outside contenders Tuesday night and named tried and true party faithfuls as their candidates in the November statewide elections.

Paul Adams, the suburban Rochester dean who took Row "C" away from the Liberal party in his 1966 run against Governor Rockefeller, was again named to run for governor. James L. Buckley, the first Conservative to poll one million votes in the state, was named to try his strength in the Senate race against incumbent Republican Charles E. Goodell.

Both Adams and Buckley received opposition from a Brooklyn faction who wanted to lead the Conservatives away from being a "mere adjunct." But party leaders held tight control over the meeting, first by ruling out of order a move to run Mario Procaccino, the Democratic candidate for mayor of New York in 1969, for governor.

Then the leader of the splinter movement, Kevin McGovern of Brooklyn, opposed Buckley, but received only 10 per cent of the vote, less than the 25 per cent needed to get on the primary ballot without circulating petitions.

Conservative leaders said their slate, which includes three political unknowns for the other statewide offices, would make even greater inroads on the two established political parties in New York. Buckley said he even stands a chance of victory against liberal doves Goodell and Theodore C. Sorensen, the designate of the Democratic committe who faces a primary fight.

"In New York this year, because of the particular mix of candidates, an independent has a real chance to win. It is not at all impossible to see victory," the brother of columnist William F. Buckley Jr. said.

Adams, who is dean of Roberts Wesleyan College in North Chili, near Rochester, polled 510,000 votes in his 1966 gubernatorial run. His total was 3,000 more than Liberal party contender Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

The other three candidates designated for statewide office by the Conservatives were Professor Edward F. Leonard of Iona College in New Rochelle for Lieutenant Governor; Leo J. Kesselring, a Rochester attorney for Attorney General; and Anthony R. Spinelli of Queens for comptroller. All were designated by acclamation.

Conservative party vice chairman and strategist Kieran O'Doherty predicted in an interview outside the meeting hall that "Adams this year will draw more on line C than the Liberals on line D, no matter who the Liberal party candidate is." O'Doherty explained that he meant that the Conservatives would outdraw the Liberals whether they stuck by party chairman Dr. Donald Harrington or substituted for him Arthur J. Goldberg or some other Democrat.

O'Doherty predicted that the Liberals would not draw more than 350,000 votes in the governor's race, compared to the 507,000 they drew four years ago.

The Conservative State Committee has 164 members, but there were only 78 delegates at the meeting. Many committee members had sent proxys.

Apollo 13 Scratch Waits For Appearance of Rash

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two of the Apollo 13 astronauts could break out in a rash of German measles at any hour, their doctor reports. If so, their planned trip to the moon starting Saturday will be postponed until May 9.

Medical specialists studied additional blood samples of all three crewmen—James A. Lovell Jr., Thomas K. Mattingly II and Fred W. Haise Jr.—to obtain up-to-date information on their immunity levels.

All three have been exposed to German measles through contact with Apollo 13 backup astronaut Charles Duke, who came down with the disease Sunday.

Medics are especially concerned about Mattingly. They reported Tuesday night he apparently had no immunity to German measles and that he might be coming down with the disease.

Earlier Tuesday they said that both Mattingly and Haise had a possibility of being infected. Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief astronaut physician, said that if symptoms develop, they could be expected within 24 to 48 hours.

He said both may have early stages of the disease, but that it was too early to tell for certain.

After Duke became infected, blood samples from Lovell, Haise and Mattingly were taken Monday and flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston. Analysis of these samples showed that all three men had satisfactory immunity to German measles at the time the blood was taken. But Berry said in the case of Haise and Mattingly, the information could be misleading.

The doctor said Mattingly and Haise showed no immunity in blood tests taken during a routine physical examination March 12. He said the satisfactory immunity level recorded in Monday's samples could mean either that disease-fighting antibodies were building up as a result of their exposure to astronaut Duke, or that they were developing symptoms of the disease.

Later Tuesday, a recheck of the blood samples indicated that Mattingly had no immunity to German measles. Additional samples were taken and flown to Houston.

Lovell showed a high level of immunity in both tests. He also was exposed to red measles last week, through his 4-year-old son Jeffrey.

At the launch pad, it was business as usual, as the countdown continued toward the planned liftoff of the Saturn 5 rocket at 2:13 p.m. EST Saturday.

Saturday is the only favorable day in April for a launching toward the intended landing target, the rugged highlands of Fra Mauro, where Lovell and Haise hope to collect rocks dating back perhaps five billion years to the creation of the moon.

The next favorable opportunity for this site is May 9.

The astronauts continued training as if they were going to the moon on time. They were in spaceship simulators Tuesday, with Lovell and Haise rehearsing the descent to the moon.

They planned today to practice lunar orbit and lunar surface activities.
